THE DEPUTY CLERK: The matter now before this Court is 2 Civil Action Number PJM 2005-494, Lewis German versus Bethesda 3 Fire Department, Inc., et al. The matter is now before the 4 5 Court for motions hearing. THE COURT: All right. Counsel, identify yourselves 6 7 for the plaintiff and defendant. First plaintiff. 8 MR. ZAID: Yes. Mark Zaid and Bradley Moss for the 9 plaintiff, Your Honor. 10 THE COURT: Are you Mark Zaid? 11 MR. ZAID: I am, sir. 12 THE COURT: All right. Next. MS. SCHMIDT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Jo Anna 13 14 Schmidt and Danielle Marone on behalf of Bethesda Fire 15 Department, Virginia Miller, and Dennis Urban. 16 THE COURT: All right. Have a seat if you would, 17 folks. 18 We have Cross Motions for Summary Judgment at this 19 time and a Motion to Strike. Let me say a word about the Motion 20 to Strike, and it really is something that we'll I think come to 21 at the end, because I suspect that at this posture the case, at 22 least insofar as I understand the case so far, it may be 23 resolvable without reference to the items. So let's leave those 24 aside for now, because I think some of the same points that are comprehended by the statements are also included in record evidence that was part of the regular discovery. So let's see where we go out with that. All right?

Now, deferring that, we've got both the Plaintiff's and Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment. Let's go with plaintiff first, you filed first, and then you can rejoin. And maybe the way to do this reasonably is instead of having you go through your whole argument, let's do it issue by issue. Let's hear you make argument, counter-argument, on each of the relevant points, okay? I think that way we'll end up with having heard both motions actually by the time we're through. So let's start with plaintiff, and you can begin with any kind of general statement you want, including a statement of facts. Likewise, defendant can do that. And then we'll go issue by issue.

In fact, let's perhaps do it that way. You make a statement of facts, Mr. Zaid. Let's have the defendant make any counter-statement that you care to so we see what your essential record is, and then we'll go back and forth by issue. Fair enough?

MR. ZAID: That's fine, Your Honor. Do you have a preference, lectern versus --

THE COURT: As long as I can hear you, it's okay. So just speak into the mic.

MR. ZAID: Not a problem.

This case is actually very straightforward, Your Honor, and I think actually both defendants' counsel and I agree 1 on that. We deal here with express concerns of fire department 2 safety and preparedness of the county for biological or chemical 3 attack and what the resulting personnel action was after the 4 deputy fire chief of the Bethesda Fire Department made those 5 remarks in October of 2001. 6 7 When Mr. German did, one, spoke to Channel 9, you have as part of the record the video of the newscast. He also spoke 8 9 to several newspapers, Washington Post, Associated Press, those 10 AP stories were reprinted in local newspapers like the Montgomery Journal. 11 THE COURT: Is he in uniform at any time? 12 13 MR. ZAID: No, sir. 14 THE COURT: All right. 15 MR. ZAID: And he was identified in each of them by 16 himself as only being either a former member of the Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue Squad, completely different entity, or a 17 18 volunteer firefighter without any designation. I think --19 THE COURT: Was his name given? 20 MR. ZAID: I'm sorry? 21 THE COURT: Was his name given? 22 MR. ZAID: Yes. Yes, yes, yes. No shying away, in 23 fact, that Lewis German was the individual speaking. There 24 might have been one article where I believe one of the reporters 25 apparently, at least it's not in quotes, inserted that he was a 1 Bethesda firefighter, I think is how they wrote it, fire member, firefighter. 2 3 All right. As a result of those comments, and which were made and echoed similar comments by other fire officials 4 5 within the county, volunteer chiefs, volunteer officers, the county was understandably concerned with those types of 6 7 comments. 8 You want me to intertwine arguments within or you want 9 me to just lay out facts first? What's better for you? 10 THE COURT: Let me just hear your factual presentation 11 at this point. 12 MR. ZAID: Okay. The county then held a press 13 conference about four days -- three to four days after these 14 media reports came about -- I'm sorry, let me -- the next day 15 held a press conference where Doug Duncan, the executive at the 16 time, and other fire officials obviously, you know, responded 17 saying, this is not the case, don't worry, and they had factual 18 disputes about that. 19 They then convened a meeting of fire chiefs and 20 deputies, as I recall, on that following Saturday to talk about 21 these issues. 22 THE COURT: Are these both regular employees and 23 volunteer chiefs?

MR. ZAID: That's my recollection. Defense counsel can correct me -- no, only volunteers.

THE COURT: Only the volunteers.

MR. ZAID: Only volunteers. Again, I think there's very few facts from a material fact standpoint that are in dispute. So only volunteers.

There was both an open meeting and then there was a closed-door meeting between Executive Duncan and other county officials and just the primary representatives of each department. So in this case Defendant Chief Dennis Urban went into the meeting. Lewis German was at the meeting, as I recall, although not — for example, Executive Duncan recalls that he wasn't at the meeting, but Mr. German recalled being at the meeting.

There were allegations as to what comments were said. Some of these are in dispute as to did Mr. Duncan make comments about Mr. German, to what degree he made comments about Mr. German. There had been, as I take one quick step back, an e-mail that Mr. German sent into a LISTSERV of fire officials in the county, fire chiefs, again, I think it was all volunteers, where he reiterated his comments substantively about the preparedness of the county and saying, look, if we want our voices to be known, this is what we all need to do conjunctively, jointly, contact the media and say — and support what we and the others have said. And then he added a comment at the bottom that — saying Mr. Duncan was saying we did this for personal gain and no one wants his job nor his wife. And that comment was interpreted by Mr. Duncan particularly as a personal attack involving his wife.

There are facts in the record as to what led to that comment being included. I think it's to some extent a little bit periphery. We can go into it if either defense counsel brings it up, more significantly, or Your Honor wishes to do so.

And the county then became sporadic because we only have a written record and then recollections from dating six to seven years back when we did the discovery to what extent the county was upset with Mr. German and the Bethesda Fire Department. Mr. German's position is he spoke out as an individual, not as a representative of the department. The department factually said, he was not speaking out on our behalf, authorized in no uncertain terms.

THE COURT: When did they say that? Did they respond to that in the press and say that this firefighter is not speaking on our behalf?

MR. ZAID: It was in a letter or memo in the end of October that Chief Urban wrote to, I believe to Mr. Duncan routed through the administrative chief officer, Mr. Romer.

THE COURT: Well, was any press release issued by --

MR. ZAID: No.

THE COURT: -- the county disavowing the remarks?

MR. ZAID: No, no. In fact, the county testimony was 25 that once they received essentially what they interpreted as a letter of apology that the matter was closed for them; that Bruce Romer testified in fact that, you know what, I think I got

     that memo, I probably just put it in the file and we thought
 4 nothing of it beyond that.
 5
               THE COURT: Where is the letter of apology?
               MR. ZAID: That is at Exhibit -- I'm sorry, hang on.
 7
     I believe that is Summary Judgment Exhibit 17. Yes.
 8
               THE COURT: The e-mail?
               MR. ZAID: That's right. And it was an e-mail, I'm sorry.
10
11
               THE COURT: Just one moment.
               MR. ZAID: That Chief Urban sent, if I'm reading this 12
     copy -- October 29th he sent to Mr. Romer to be routed through 14 to Mr. Duncan, to Executive Duncan. And in fact, what was 15 notable about it as well, if you look in the third paragraph, 16 first sentence, where he indicates that Deputy Chief German has 17
     been appropriately dealt with by the Bethesda Corporation.
               And he also notes that the e-mail that caused 18 19 understandably Mr. Duncan to be upset was essentially an 20 unfortunate incident because it was a private e-mail system and 21 somebody took that internal e-mail and distributed it. That was 22 not meant for public consumption.
23
               THE COURT: That refers to specifically the comment 24 about Duncan's wife or -- 25
               MR. ZAID: Correct.
```

1 THE COURT: -- or anything else, but about the --MR. ZAID: No. The only -- only with Duncan's wife. 2 In fact, the deposition testimony by the county was, look, we 3 don't agree with what Deputy Chief Mr. German and the others 4 5 said, but it was a legitimate subject for dispute or debate as far as preparedness. I mean, it's an issue we obviously still 6 7 talk about today. 8 THE COURT: And Romer was the executive assistant, 9 what you would call the administrative officer of the county? 10 MR. ZAID: Correct. 11 THE COURT: All right. 12 MS. SCHMIDT: That's correct, Your Honor. 13 THE COURT: All right. 14 MR. ZAID: And they -- now, Mr. Duncan had indicated 15 in a lot of his testimony that really actually what he wanted 16 was a personal apology from Mr. German about that comment, and 17 he laughed in fact at the deposition that, you know, he never 18 did get that. It seemed to have been a disconnect of whether 19 Mr. German knew he wanted that, but I don't think Mr. German, as 20 I recall, would have given it anyway, to be honest. I think he 21 said that. 22 In any event, so October goes by. There is then a 23 memo that is sent on October 24th. I don't know necessarily 24 when it was received, this is Summary Judgment Exhibit 18. 25 Presumably -- I'm not sure. Let's see, did he reference it? I don't know if we can see from the face whether Mr. Dennis Urban knew of that memo when he wrote that or not. I would -- 2

               THE COURT: Sorry, give me that exhibit number again.
 4
               MR. ZAID: Eighteen. Eighteen, Your Honor.
               THE COURT: Okay.
               MR. ZAID: This was Gordon Ayoagi, the fire
 7 administrator, sending a memo to Virginia Miller about 8 Station 20, which is a fire department station of Bethesda in 9 which the county has personnel in it. And there was a dispute 10 that preceded 9-11 that had been a subject of tension between 11 the county and the department that the department wanted the 12 county to vacate that station. And this is a decision issued by 13 the county that they were not going to vacate the station, and 14 in the same memo he talks about -- Mr. Ayoagi talks about the 15 German incident, as well as other incidents that had caused 16 obviously some level of adverse interaction between the two.
17
               THE COURT: Just as an aside -- 18
               MR. ZAID: Yes.
               THE COURT: -- I don't know how much you get into
20 this, but I'm sort of a Montgomery County resident and I'm kind 21 of aware of the fact that the volunteer firefighters and the 22 regular firefighters have kind of been at odds for a long time.
23
     Does that plug in in any way to this dispute?
24
               MR. ZAID: To some extent. I was a volunteer 25 firefighter for years. It's every -- everywhere there's

1 volunteer firefighters and paid career firefighters, there's 2 issues. THE COURT: You mean not just in Montgomery County? 3 MR. ZAID: Oh, definitely. I can -- several counties 4 5 in New York State I can tell you about. All right. It did play. I'm not sure if it's 6 7 relevant to some -- from a material fact standpoint. It's certainly raised more of an issue for the defense than here. 8 9 The county officials for sure testified that they believed that 10 this was just another conflagration of the dispute between the 11 career paid firefighters and the volunteers. And some of the 12 volunteers I think did see it as, well, why is it we're not 13 given this equipment. That was part of the dispute. The 14 equipment was put into Chevy Chase Station 7 on Connecticut 15 Avenue, and the question was, well, why wasn't this being 16 distributed to the volunteer units? The volunteer units were 17 very often the ones that were first on the scene. And I should say, now, Bethesda, if you don't know, 18 19 you probably do from the reading, is a mixed component. The 20 firefighters are all county-paid full-time employees. The three 21 officers --22 THE COURT: The one on Wisconsin Avenue and Bradley? 23 MR. ZAID: Correct, Bradley and Wisconsin. 24 The three chiefs, the chief and the two deputy chiefs, are volunteers, and the board are all volunteers as well.

1 Mr. German was a volunteer member though he was in charge of paid county employees on fire scenes, obviously. So there's no 2 doubt that that inflated some existing tensions that still exist 3 4 today. 5 THE COURT: All right. MR. ZAID: Now, from the county perspective, there is 6 7 no evidence beyond from a documentation standpoint of county 8 involvement. There's deposition testimony that Mr. -- I said 9 Mr. Romer said as far as he was concerned it was closed --10 THE COURT: Are you talking about the remark about Duncan's wife at this point? 11 12 MR. ZAID: The whole --13 THE COURT: Or other things --14 MR. ZAID: Anything, anything with it. You have 15 Duncan -- again, when Duncan -- I'm sorry, when Mr. Romer was 16 shown the e-mail, Exhibit 17, you know, not that he necessarily 17 remembers it, you know, sitting in 2007 from 2001, but in 18 re-reading it, his testimony was, you know, I looked at it, I 19 can't imagine that didn't just close the issue for me. I filed 20 it away, and I probably -- if I recall him correctly, I probably 21 never even gave it to Mr. Duncan. As I recall, he said that. 22 Now, Mr. Ayoagi said he was still interested in what 23 was going on and he still wanted the department to tell him 24 what, if anything, they did --25 THE COURT: Let me be clear on timing. When this memo comes from Romer -- actually, it's from Urban to Romer; is that 2

     it?
 3
               MR. ZAID: Yes.
               THE COURT: All right. Are there any further public statements that are made by the plaintiff?
               MR. ZAID: No, the public statements were all on
 7
     October 9th.
 8
               THE COURT: Okay.
 9
               MR. ZAID: And appeared on October 10th -- 10
               THE COURT: Okay.
11
               MR. ZAID: -- from the newspaper standpoint.
12
               THE COURT: All right.
13
               MR. ZAID: And the press conference actually occurred 14 on October 10th.
15
               Am I getting my dates correct?
16
               MS. SCHMIDT: That's correct.
17
               MR. ZAID: Obviously the press conference was in the 18 morning, the newspapers obviously would have been on the stands 19 already, but the county already knew that this was coming 20 because they obviously got phone calls from the press, so they 21 were able to convene the press conference. And then the meeting 22 on October 13th, the Saturday.
23
               After that, again, Mr. Ayoagi had said he wanted to be 24 kept apprized, and he later heard that there had been a 25 termination and he never really paid much attention to it.

Now, Mr. German's testimony was that as far as he was concerned, by October, because he was actually social friends with Chief Urban, they would go hunting together, they would have dinner together, there was no issue that was continuing to be told. He thought it was a closed matter until November of '01 when Chief Urban told him that Virginia Miller, Ginny Miller, the president of the board, wanted his head on a platter. And from what the facts — I'm not going to get — I'm trying to stay completely as to what hopefully would not be in contest. At least it seemed that Virginia Miller was pushing the issue, and then Chief Urban had to deal with the president of his board.

any punishment.

They convened a meeting between the three of them on December 10th, 2001, where Mr. German was given the option of, what punishment do you want to have imposed on you? And his response was, for what? I didn't do anything wrong. You can't punish me for speaking out. I did it on my own time.

There's — this was a legitimate issue. I'm not going to accept

Then there's nothing on the issue. There are again, from what we have in documentation, some e-mails that reflect there was some sort of conversations back through into the new year, and then in January.

And then on January 22nd, this is Exhibit 23, the e-mail that is at the crux of this case was sent by Chief Urban to Mr. German that reflects an agreement that Chief Urban apparently negotiated in compromise with President Miller, and from the testimony of the two of them, it was basically Chief Urban coming up with this and President Miller just saying, you know, that's fine by me. And it's the third prong of the three that's at issue.

And if you recall, Your Honor, when we last appeared before you on January of '07 on the Motion to Dismiss, you in fact indicated that -- I think I quoted this correctly, that is was really problematic, that particular term, and that you had indicated you expected the defendants in the course of the case to explain this particular e-mail term. I think when we get into the arguments you'll see I don't believe they were able to do so.

And that third prong being you can never contact the media in any way, individually, anonymously, third party, et cetera, while a member of the BFD, and that there is no negotiation or compromise on these conditions.

Mr. German wrote back saying he was essentially incredulous, where did this come from, I never said anything, how does this reconcile with my free speech rights under the Maryland State Constitution --

THE COURT: His response also right there?

MR. ZAID: Yes. His response is Exhibit 24 where he says he's not going to agree to any punishment and it's inconsistent with state law and violates his rights. And then in Exhibit 25, which is February 20th, 2002, Chief Urban sends Mr. German an e-mail terminating his position as deputy chief. And because there are no -- he's not a paid firefighter, termination as deputy chief means he's terminated as a member of the Bethesda Fire Department.

Mr. German then sends an appeal letter to the board members, which is Exhibit 26, reiterating what his position was as to why he said what he said and that he doesn't understand why there's punishment here and that he was surprised by Chief Urban's role in this. They appeared -- he then appeared --

Now, there is no formal process for this appeal within the board. The bylaws at least don't reflect anything. This was, I would say, just something ad hoc that was being permitted for him to come in as deputy chief. Of course, the board members knew him, not very well, there wasn't a great deal of interaction between the board and the operational line officers or the firefighters.

He appeared, as I recall, on March 6th of 2002, and he made his pitch. They went into a closed session, and the factual record reflects that the board did nothing. They didn't do anything one way or the other. There's factual disputes among — or questions within the board members' minds even today whether the chief has the authority to fire a deputy chief or the board has the authority to fire a deputy chief, but most of them just went along with it, and that was the end of it.

Now, there's a legal issue that is also factually driven about whether or not Mr. German was required to exhaust further administrative remedies and appeal the Bethesda Fire Department's determination.

THE COURT: Well, we'll talk about that in argument.

MR. ZAID: Yeah. So from a factual standpoint, after that he's terminated and essentially then he moves out of state. And as a factual damage issue, again, he's a volunteer, he's not on salary, but there are certain financial benefits that one gets as a volunteer in most jurisdictions.

THE COURT: Well, what was he getting?

MR. ZAID: You get a tax credit of I believe it was $3,000 per year, and you do get -- you do earn retirement or benefits, retirement benefits that you -- after a certain amount of time that is laid out and not in dispute. Actually we have an agreed stipulation.

THE COURT: What is laid out?

MR. ZAID: In Exhibit 28 is a stipulation that goes into the out-of -- what I would style as out-of-pocket damage loss. The amount of benefits that he would receive each month and the amount of benefits he would have received had he remained a member of the department.

That doesn't talk about the tax credit. That's I think in a footnote in the brief, but that's just a matter of I think an undisputed county -- or federal reg.

               THE COURT: You are also seeking reinstatement,
     though, are you not, or you were at least at one point?
               MR. ZAID: I think technically that is still as a remedy. I'm honestly not sure that that would actually come to 5 fruition were that granted.
 7
               THE COURT: Thank you. What's the number that's at stake here? Do you have a total that you've worked out?
 9
               MR. ZAID: There is not. The thing I had asked for 10 was to have a damage hearing. I think most of it's going to 11 come down to looking at when a state actor, which the Bethesda 12
     Fire Department is considered as, infringes upon First Amendment 13 right and whether or not there can be -- because I think, as I 14 recall, there are some Maryland regulations or statutes 15 governing a maximum amount of awards, but we honestly haven't 16 gone into that yet.
17
               THE COURT: I'm not sure that's true. It applies to a 18
     1983 claim. That may -- 19
               MR. ZAID: But I don't -- this isn't under 1983. It's 20 just under First Amendment.
               THE COURT: I'm sorry. Well, First Amendment is 1983, 21
     isn't it?
23
               MR. ZAID: Is it --
24
               THE COURT: Well, I mean, 1983 is civil rights, 25 doesn't create a cause of action, it gives you a right to proceed under various constitutional rights that you have. I assume it's a 1983 claim. Am I wrong about that?
```

 2
               MS. SCHMIDT: No, I believe that it would be, Your
     Honor.
 5
               THE COURT: I guess what you're saying, as long as you're making a constitutional claim under the First
     Amendment --
               MR. ZAID: Okay. It gets back under -- 8
               THE COURT: -- the only way you do that is through a
10
     1983 claim.
11
               MR. ZAID: There is not a tabulation of the damages at 12 this stage. We were just looking for summary judgment on the 13 law.
14
               THE COURT: All right. You want to go from -- switch 15 over to -- 16
               MR. ZAID: Yeah, let me switch over -- 17
               THE COURT: -- offer any kind of counter-statement of facts? You can embrace, reject, whatever you want to tell me you have.
20
               MS. SCHMIDT: Okay. For the most part, the defendants 21 do not disagree with the statements of fact that are outlined by 22 counsel. There is no question that an article appeared on 23 October 9th. There's no question that the media apparently 24 contacted the county and gave them a heads-up, that they had regarding the location of the suits, why they had not been distributed, they had not been appropriately fit tested, et cetera.

As a result of that media issue, the county scheduled a conference, a press conference, with County Executive Duncan on October 10th. And at that press conference Executive Duncan indicated that he believed the issue that was being raised with respect to biohazard suits was in fact a career versus volunteer issue. And he was very concerned that in -- you know, within a period of less than 30 days from 9-11 we're dealing with a situation where now there's going to be this career versus volunteer issue that quite frankly has existed in Montgomery County for a significant period of type and still exists today.

And so the county was trying to cut it off, if you will, so that that would not be an issue of dispute. Executive Duncan indicated in his deposition that he believed it was a scare tactic on the part of the volunteers to kind of get the community in an uproar over this issue of whether or not the county was prepared for a terrorist attack. Certainly, given Montgomery County's proximity to the Capital, to what happened at the Pentagon, there was a large contingent of volunteer and career fire department personnel who responded to the Pentagon following the 9-11 attack, and in that context the county was very much concerned that this was being made an issue.

Following the press conference Mr. German, as well as others, had continued contact with the press, same day as the press conference, and then following that press conference he sent out an e-mail over the LISTSERV, which essentially indicated that, look, we -- you know, our opinions are out there, we've got to keep up the pressure, here's a list of the reporters, here's their contact numbers, keep this up. He misinterpreted a statement that was made by Executive Duncan. Executive Duncan indicated that they were doing it for personal reasons. Plaintiff interpreted that to mean that they were -- the voluntaries were doing this for personal gain. And so in his e-mail he says, it's not personal gain, nobody wants his job nor his wife.

That e-mail gets distributed to, which is known as the 12th floor, the Executive Office Building, where the command staff for fire or rescue are located. Obviously, once that happened there was a lot of consternation within the county about the fact that here is a statement that's being made by -- against the county executive's wife, he was not happy with it.

There was then the meeting at the Public Service

Training Academy on October 13th. It was a meeting between

Executive Duncan, Bruce Romer, Gordon Ayoagi, who was at the time the fire administration or the administrative head of Montgomery County's Division of Fire and Rescue, as well as all of the volunteer chief assistants and deputy chiefs. So it was a meeting to kind of speak with the volunteer chiefs and say, look, we understand that you have concerns about equipment. Let us discuss this in this forum as opposed to debating it in a public forum where, you know, we have to be concerned about the impact that it's going to have to the community at large, given the time, given the post 9-11 era.

Service Training Academy, Executive Duncan, although he did not single out the plaintiff by name, did indicate that someone had made a comment or statement regarding his wife and he wished to have an apology.

There may be some dispute. My recollection is that Chief Urban indicated not that the — that there was a period of time when just the chiefs were taken aside, and then there was a period of time where he alone was taken aside.

THE COURT: "He" being?

MS. SCHMIDT: "He," Chief Urban.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. SCHMIDT: And the county wanting to know what they were going to do, "they" Bethesda, to deal with the issue of Lewis German making the statement regarding Executive Duncan's wife. Based upon that discussion --

THE COURT: How was it interpreted? I'm just trying to understand what the meaning of this clause is. I mean, it sounds like a figure of speech to me, I don't want his job, I don't want his wife, I don't want his dog, I don't want his house.

             I'm --
               MS. SCHMIDT: Unfortunately I think Executive --
 3
               MR. ZAID: I'm sorry.
               THE COURT: -- asking you specifically what meaning
     was put on it.
               MS. SCHMIDT: Executive Duncan interpreted that, I believe, to be some sort of sexual reference to this wife or it 8 was a derogatory comment regarding his wife. I mean, Executive 9 Duncan was clearly upset by the comment and was looking to 10 Bethesda --
 7
11
               THE COURT: You think that was an objectively 12 reasonable response?
13
               MS. SCHMIDT: Executive Duncan's response?
14
               THE COURT: Yeah. I mean, when someone says, I don't 15 want his job, I don't want his wife, is it just a manner of 16 speech?
17
               MS. SCHMIDT: Again, I think it was a question of the context in which the comments were made.
19
               THE COURT: All right. I just wondered. I'd looked 20 at that clause several times and was trying to figure out what 21 was offensive by it. But in any event, it may -- unless you're 22
     relying on that as the basis for discharging him -- are you?
               MS. SCHMIDT: There is a part of -- it's a dual purpose. Both Virginia Miller, the president of the Bethesda 25
24
     Fire Department, and Chief Urban indicated that there were --

they had concerns not only based upon the statements that he 1 made to the media and his actions in that regard, but also the 2 fact that how that statement was interpreted by Executive
 4
     Duncan --
 5
               THE COURT: All right. Well, I've perhaps tipped my hand on that. I mean, if that's the reason, one of the reasons,
     they gave for discharge, you're not going to win summary judgment on that, I can tell you right off. I don't know that you'll lose summary judgment, but it comes close. That's, at 10 best, an ambiguous remark. Maybe at best it's a colorful remark 11 that doesn't offend anybody. At worst it may be an 12 interpretation that's put upon it that is hyper-hypersensitive, 13 but it doesn't give you any basis to discharge. I can tip my 14 hand completely on that. That's about as peripheral as any 15 issue that I see in the case.
 9
               Leave aside the letter from -- the e-mail from Urban
17
     to Romer. We'll deal with the major issue here, which is the 18 free speech issue, I think.
19
               MS. SCHMIDT: Right.
20
               THE COURT: All right.
21
               MS. SCHMIDT: And, Your Honor, so based upon that 22
     Chief Urban obviously is feeling some pressure to respond to the 23 county's concerns about what is happening. What happens then is 24
     the memo comes out on October 24th, 2001, which is the letter from Gordon Ayoagi to Virginia Miller, and it's Plaintiff's

Exhibit 18. Not only does it reference or address the issue of Station 20, but very clearly Gordon Ayoagi is not happy with and has taken the actions of Lewis German and inflicted upon Bethesda a negative effect. He says, I am concerned about the pattern of lack of cooperation from Bethesda Fire Department to fulfill the obligations of our public/private partnership. What was a previously excellent relationship appears to be marred by recent events. And then he proceeds to outline some of the events that he believes Gordon Ayoagi have affected or impaired the relationship. And at the time —

THE COURT: Are we back to the career/volunteer issue there?

MS. SCHMIDT: I don't think so, Your Honor. I think we're -- at this point we're at a situation where the -- you know, the fire administrator is saying, Bethesda, get your house in order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. SCHMIDT: You have an assistant chief being permitted to be the spokesperson for Bethesda Fire Department and undermining public confidence in the county's planning and response for chemical/biological events. The assistant chief, as the spokesperson for BFD, contradicting statements made by the county executive at a press conference regarding the county's readiness and undermining public confidence in the fire service. The failure by the Bethesda fire chief to report actions taken regarding the personal attacks made by the assistant chief on the county executive's wife. And then he says, and now your demand that the Station 20 space be vacated.

But again, Your Honor, so clearly it's not just Bethesda saying, Mr. German, your comments were inappropriate.

We have Executive Duncan having a question about the comment and the e-mail, and now you have Gordon Ayoagi questioning it, and clearly making it as a personal attack on the executive's wife.

Based upon that inquiry, obviously Virginia Miller contacts

Dennis Urban, said, look, we need to deal with this issue. That is what then precipitates the e-mail from Dennis Urban to Bruce Romer on October -- I believe it's October 29th, 2001.

It's not clear and the parties' recollection is not great as to what came first, but there was no question that Dennis Urban, when he left the meeting on October 13th, understood that the county intended for him to provide a response regarding how Bethesda was going to handle the issue.

In that e-mail that Chief Urban sent to Bruce Romer, it technically is not an apology. He's saying, please be assured he did not speak on behalf of Bethesda Fire Department, he is not our spokesperson, we find the comments to be reprehensible. Understand this is the area in which the comment was made, he believed it to be a private system, but it does not -- it's not an apology letter.

THE COURT: He's making that -- your position was he was making the statement about Mrs. Duncan, to the extent that he was at all, as a private person, but anything he was saying about the other matters was as a public person; is that right?

MS. SCHMIDT: Well, I think that --

THE COURT: I mean, I'm asking you, I --

MS. SCHMIDT: I don't think so. I think, quite frankly, Your Honor, the department was looking at it and Chief Urban testified in his deposition that he believed, based upon Mr. German's service to the fire community for the number of years that he had been involved, that it was almost impossible for him to set --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. SCHMIDT: -- to speak out on fire department matters as a private citizen, that because of the very nature of the positions that he had held within the fire service, he was going to be recognized as someone who was speaking out. He was known throughout the county as a chief officer, not the chief but a chief officer, of Bethesda Fire Department. And in fact, in his deposition the plaintiff acknowledged that he took a reporter to the Chevy Chase Fire Station, allowed her -- with her, got her access to those suits so that she could see them, count them, indicated where they were located, and that appeared in print. And Mr. German was very clear in his deposition that the only person that told the press where those suits were located, how many they were, and gained her access was him.

1 And again, the county had a concern. Here are suits that are designed to respond to a biochemical hazard, and now 2 the terrorists know where they're housed. Up till then the 3 general public had no knowledge as to where those suits were 4 5 located. So --THE COURT: Isn't there some dispute about that on the 6 7 record? I thought there was. 8 MR. ZAID: That he brought the reporter to the 9 station? 10 THE COURT: No, as to where the -- at least a number of outfits were located. 11 12 MR. ZAID: There is a factual dispute. There's 13 declarations that say people knew that it was there and --14 THE COURT: Understood. All right. Any more factual 15 matters that you want to --16 MS. SCHMIDT: The only -- as I said, Your Honor, the 17 real issues with respect to the department is in looking at the 18 factual matters, the plaintiff acknowledges that in his 19 deposition he did not have the board's permission to speak on 20 behalf of the fire department. Although he didn't feel that he 21 needed their permission to speak on behalf of the fire 22 department, he acknowledged that he did present that issue to 23 the board before he went to the press and that they did not 24 specifically authorize him to do that.

He also acknowledged that he understood, based upon his service within the fire community in Montgomery County, that under the integrated emergency command structure that generally a deputy chief is not going to speak out on matters of this import on behalf of the department, and in fact, acknowledged that when he was at Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue he would not have that authority to do that. So —

THE COURT: All right. Let me pose a question to both of you, because to some extent it seems like there are issues that are conflated here. One is whether in fact there was retaliation for words that were actually spoken. The other seems to be that he is told that you can only come back if you give up any right to speak about anything. Now, those are really, in some ways, two separate issues; related, but separate.

Now, as I'm reading the Complaint — the Amended Complaint, it seems to me the issue largely goes off on what he was told he could or couldn't do coming back but doesn't strictly posit the argument that I've been retaliated — although I think it's implied, I've been retaliated against for what in fact I've already said. Two different concepts: One is perspective, one is a prior restraint, the other is a retaliation for some statement that may be protected by the First Amendment.

I've analyzed this case so far on the theory that there are really two related claims that are made here under the First Amendment, and one, as I say, relates to what has gone on in the past, the other is perspective. So we need to talk about that, because arguably there may be different remedies that attach as to the one as opposed to the other. So we need to talk about it.

Now, you might want to say something relative to the second issue, which is when Urban says, in effect, you can never speak again as an individual. That's a rather large statement to make, hard to defend. What do you do by way of explanation as to that?

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, the only thing that I can say, and there is somewhat of a factual dispute between the parties as to what transpired between October and the time that this meeting occurred --

THE COURT: You got this letter there. I mean right there on its face is problematic.

MS. SCHMIDT: I understand that, Your Honor, and what I'm saying is there had been — according to Chief Urban there had been ongoing discussions between himself and the plaintiff as to what type of discipline would be appropriate. And Chief Urban testified that Lewis German said, I will accept any form of punishment short of termination. Now, the plaintiff denies that, but Chief Urban testified to that. They then had this meeting in December of 2001, Virginia Miller and Dennis Urban asked him, what type of punishment do you feel would be

1 appropriate? Plaintiff said, I don't feel any discipline is appropriate, but they end the meeting saying, think about what 2 you're going to do. Then Dennis Miller and Virginia Miller go 3 back -- Dennis Urban and Virginia Miller go back and forth, and 4 5 then there's the e-mail that comes out. Chief Urban testified that he didn't feel in his mind 6 7 when he was saying you cannot speak about anything in any 8 capacity, he said he felt that he couldn't -- that the plaintiff 9 would not separate himself from his position in the fire service 10 and that he believed he was only referring to fire --11 THE COURT: Are you positing as a statement that in fact he could be prohibited from ever speaking as a citizen on 12 13 any fire issue? I mean, can that constitutionally be done? 14 Maybe one can agree to it, but --15 MS. SCHMIDT: I'm not sure that that's exactly what 16 Chief Urban had in mind, but --17 THE COURT: I'm not asking what he had in mind. I'm 18 reading the paper. 19 MS. SCHMIDT: Right, I understand that, Your Honor. I 20 quess part of the problem is that in his deposition Chief Urban 21 and Virginia Miller both said, you know, I understand that that language is troubling, we weren't intending to completely restrict his speech.

THE COURT: But he said, I don't buy that, I quit, or I don't buy that, and they said, well, you're out.

25

MS. SCHMIDT: Right.

THE COURT: So whatever he intended — whatever they intended in their mind, I mean rather clearly there was a nexus between his refusal to accept that among other conditions and his dismissal.

MS. SCHMIDT: Well, at that point Chief Urban testified too that he believed — he kind of felt like he was set up by the plaintiff in that all along he had been saying, I will agree to some form of discipline, and then said, no, I will not accept any discipline whatsoever, I will not write a letter of apology. And at that point he felt like his hands were tied, because Chief Urban testified he felt like the county was looking for some sort of discipline. He was trying to work with Virginia Miller, the president and work with the plaintiff and —

THE COURT: All right. Let's shortcut --

MS. SCHMIDT: And that's where we are.

THE COURT: Let's shortcut at least part of the argument here. Let's assume I hold as a matter of law that this statement is unconstitutional, this proposed condition would clearly be unconstitutional, and that there was a nexus at least between that condition in part and the termination. All right? Now, what do you do at that point? Is that enough to make a case with all the rest being background noise, or do you need everything else that goes before to effectively let this case go forward? And maybe I ought to ask the plaintiff that first -- 2

               MS. SCHMIDT: Okay.
 3
               THE COURT: -- because I need to understand your theory. And as I said, that language remains highly problematic. So what about it?
               MR. ZAID: The Goldstein case is really the primary
7
     case, and I believe both sides agree.
 8
               THE COURT: All right. Do I have that?
 9
               MR. ZAID: You do.
10
               THE COURT: Would you find it for me?
11
               Go ahead.
12
               MR. ZAID: Goldstein actually was a similar case in 13 that of a fire department volunteer official -- captain, I 14 believe, if I recall. Captain?
15
               MS. SCHMIDT: Goldstein?
16
               MR. ZAID: Goldstein?
17
              MS. SCHMIDT: No.
18
              MR. ZAID: No?
19
              MS. SCHMIDT: He was just a member.
20
              MR. ZAID: Just a member.
               MS. SCHMIDT: He lost the election.
21
22
               MR. ZAID: Okay. Who was disciplined, and I don't 23 remember exactly what the -- that he actually might have gotten 24 kicked out. It doesn't matter. But Goldstein from the Fourth 25
     Circuit sets forth the standards that are at play and the prongs

that are at play. And essentially what this case is boiling down to from a legal factual standpoint is whether or not Bethesda's Fire Department's interest in First Amendment -- I'm sorry, whether German's interest in First Amendment expression must outweigh Bethesda Fire Department's interest in efficient operation of the workplace. That, from the plaintiff's perspective, and I -- my interpretation of the defendants' arguments, that's the core of this case for Your Honor to decide.

you can't.

THE COURT: Well, I'm even asking a narrower question than that. Can it ever be outweighed if you say you can never speak again about any issue in any capacity? At least that's the interpretation. What kind of weighing analysis is there?

MR. ZAID: The plaintiff's perspective would be no,

THE COURT: There is really no weigh analysis, is there? I'm posing that rhetorically to you, Counsel, because that's the issue that I'm confronted with. I can see that analysis working with regard to the first part of the case where you're looking retrospectively. Then you get into an analysis of whether there was retaliation because of what went on retrospectively.

MR. ZAID: I think they said from a contractual standpoint if the person wants to agree, I guess they can then be bound by the contract. That's a separate argument. But with refusing to abide by that, no, plaintiff's respective would be you absolutely cannot. I mean, we're comfortable to say it 2 doesn't matter either way, because the second prong can't be met 3 by the defendants. But if Your Honor categorically ruled that

 5
     by itself that took place --
               THE COURT: I'm only asking --
 7
               MR. ZAID: No, no, I realize from a --
               THE COURT: -- at this point -- 8
               MR. ZAID: If that ruling went that way.
10
               THE COURT: Go ahead.
11
               MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, I believe you still have to 12 engage in the balancing test, because it is -- I think it's a 13 continuity of events. You have the issues to take that arise in 14
     October, and then there's this ongoing negotiation, if you will.
15
     And so I don't think that you can interpret the February -- the 16 January 2002 and February 2002 e-mails from Chief Urban as 17 saying, we are -- you are being terminated because you refuse to 18 accept that you can no longer speak.
19
               I mean, it's very clear in the record that Virginia 20
     Miller and Dennis Urban and the board itself felt that he needed 21 to be disciplined, and his refusal to accept discipline was the 22 reason for the termination, and not necessarily that he, you know, refused to accept that he could no longer speak out on matters of the fire department. That's -- I think that's how -- 25
24
               THE COURT: All right. There is a possible -- I mean,

one can also analyze it a slightly different way, which is that, number one, if he is correct on the fact that he was — his First Amendment rights were abridged for what he said, then there's no basis for him to be disciplined.

Number two, if the remark, which I've already told you I think is, at best, ambiguous, at worst, who knows, but could be — even be a colorful way of speaking, that in and of itself would not justify something that the — the termination that took place or at least would be open to dispute before a trier of fact.

But then, if in fact he has stated his First Amendment claim, then the additional condition that he not speak again on anything I suppose gives him additional weight in support of his First Amendment claim.

The issue that I was grappling with is suppose I had determined that he hadn't stated a First Amendment claim with regard to what he said earlier but then there's an attempted prior restraint on what he's supposed to do in future, could you have those — could you still have a viable cause of action if he didn't have the first cause of action? That was the way I was looking at it.

MR. ZAID: I think there is an overlap between the two. I raised in the brief that there is an aspect of prior restraint. I think it's very clear, and I don't even think this would be disputed from the factual record, there's a but for.

You know, had Mr. German not spoken out on October 9th -- 8th, 9th, 10th, none of this probably would have -- you know, who knows what could have happened and other issues. But taking that out of the vacuum, all of the testimony was, you know, unlike, for example, in the Goldstein case where Goldstein appeared to be a royal pain in the -- you know, introduced here in creating all sorts of issues with his department, and in fact in Goldstein he lost because he couldn't prove the fourth prong in correlating the termination with the exercise of his First Amendment right.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. ZAID: Here you have German coming out with speech, and they are punishing him for that speech --

THE COURT: I don't think there's any question --

MR. ZAID: -- and then prospectively stopping further speech, so it's a combination. And the standards are different.

THE COURT: I'm not really certain, and maybe again to try and telescope things, it certainly looks like that there is adverse action that is taken in response to what he said, and so the idea of adverse action doesn't need to be argued too much by you here. The issue really is whether it's a matter of public concern, number one; and then, secondly, whether it's in any way spoken in his official capacity. And then ultimately whether, if it is a matter of public concern spoken not in his official capacity, whether it's outweighed by concerns of efficiency and discipline and harmony and so on and so forth in the department. 1 So let's get into the basic issues now. If there's 2 3 more factual development you want to do in connection with your argument you can feel free to do so, but let's go ahead as if 4 5 you're making a prima facie case, Mr. Zaid. MR. ZAID: Thank you, Your Honor. 6 7 THE COURT: And do it issue by issue, and I'll have defendants respond as you go. 8 9 MR. ZAID: There are two counts that remain in the 10 case, Count Two and Count Four. Count Four is the First 11 Amendment, Count Four is the wrongful discharge. 12 THE COURT: Yeah, do Count Two first, the procedural 13 issue. 14 MR. ZAID: Okay. 15 THE COURT: About what you were going to do, because 16 that's something where I think I need you to point me a little 17 bit to the record. 18 MR. ZAID: Sure. The issue that came up with Count 19 Two, and they are very much tied to Count Four, so let me just 20 first start at the back end of Count Four -- I'm sorry, Count 21 Two, because if you resolve Count Two in favor of Mr. German, if 22 I can tie in exhaustion issues, which I'm going to focus on, 23 Count Two goes with it, because the wrongful discharge under 24 Maryland law is the violation of the First Amendment.

THE COURT: All right. And let's assume that for

1 present purposes, if in fact he's terminated because he 2 exercised free speech rights.
 3
               MR. ZAID: Right. And it's clearly -- 4
               THE COURT: I was more concerned with the procedural 5
     issue.
               MR. ZAID: Yes.
 7
               THE COURT: Did he do what he was supposed to do --
               MR. ZAID: Okay.
 9
               THE COURT: -- to contest what he claims is a wrongful 10 discharge.
               MR. ZAID: The issue was did he exhaust all of his 11 12 administrative remedies.
13
               THE COURT: Right.
14
               MR. ZAID: And that was something that we went back 15 and forth on, perhaps you recall, it was a while ago, and you in 16 fact sua sponte brought up the exhaustion requirement for the 17 State of Maryland. Neither party had addressed that. And in fact, when the county was in, the county had addressed that --
19
               THE COURT: You agree that there's no exhaustion 20 requirement for the 1983 claim?
21
               MR. ZAID: Yes.
22
               THE COURT: All right.
23
               MR. ZAID: Now, there have been -- it is unlike 24 dealing with federal statutes, which is fairly easy to find, and 25 even the legislative history. Not so with Montgomery County council in trying to figure out the legislative history. I 1 submitted last night with my apologies that it was last night, 2 but it actually took me up to this point to get what I needed to 3 get. And even then it was contradicting things I had been told in the interim.
```

               THE COURT: Did you get a copy of this, Ms. Schmidt?
 7
               MR. ZAID: Yes.
               MS. SCHMIDT: I did, Your Honor.
 9
               THE COURT: All right.
10
               MR. ZAID: So here is the key. We have been going 11 back and forth. We had always taken the position that there was no requirement for exhaustion. There was no other avenue of appeal beyond internally within the department, and the 14 department had taken the position, no, you could go to the Fire 15 and Rescue Commission. And then we went back and forth with 16 citations of different provisions of the county law, and then I 17 kept still saying, no, this is a later provision, and the county 18 came -- 19
13
               THE COURT: Right, that's where you left me. And 20 that's where I'm -- 21
               MR. ZAID: The department came back saying, no, it's 22
     not -- okay.
               THE COURT: I'm asking for enlightenment.
23
24
               MR. ZAID: Yes, enlightenment. This is what I found 25 and gave you last night. Exhibit A, the 1998 document --

```
THE COURT: Which bill number?
 1
               MR. ZAID: I'm sorry, again?
 3
               THE COURT: Bill number?
               MR. ZAID: 37-97.
 5
               THE COURT: 37-97.
               MR. ZAID: Right. This is what was enacted, and this is the one that even the defendants had talked about July 1st, 8
 7
     1998. If you look at page 31, the section that we've always 9 been talking about is 21-7, Appeals To and From the Commission.
10
               THE COURT: All right.
11
               MR. ZAID: Now, on page two of this document it gives 12
     you the explanation.
               THE COURT: Page two of the document or -- 13
14
               MR. ZAID: No. Substantively I'm referring to 15 page 31.
16
               THE COURT: Yeah.
17
               MR. ZAID: Page two is the key to tell you what 18 brackets mean and what underlining means, you know, which 19 language is being discarded, which is new language.
20
               THE COURT: All right. Okay. All right.
21
               MR. ZAID: Okay? In this version we don't have to 22 deal with it that much, it's all new language, this is all new 23 for the county, 21-7 here. The jurisdiction of the Fire Rescue 24 Commission is set forth in (a) (1) and (a) (2). Well, (a) (1) 25 doesn't count. It's talking about any action of the fire administrator. That was Mr. Ayoagi. But the county was adamant to say they had nothing to do with Mr. German's punishment, nothing whatsoever, never suggested anything, never did anything, didn't want anything except to know what was going on and what was Bethesda going to do.

Section 2 of paragraph (a)(2), any employee or volunteer firefighter -- Mr. German -- can bring an appeal concerning an adverse action of the administrator -- okay, not applicable -- or local fire and rescue department -- applicable -- in carrying out a county law or regulation, commission policy, or order of the administrator. None of those are applicable here. That is not what we're talking about. There's no county law, there's no regulation, there's not even a bylaw in the department that pertains to this, that's not in dispute. There's no commission policy, and there's no order of the administrator.

In 2005, that's Exhibit B, Bill 3603, on page 31 coincidently, it shows that the county modified the law and made it so that today if this had happened Mr. German could go to the Commission because he could challenge the decision of a local fire department involving the removal, demotion, suspension, or other disciplinary action applied specifically to that individual. But that did not exist in 2002. There was no avenue for Mr. German to go beyond where he went. So the relevant case law talks about exhaustion, you know, only existing where there is exclusive remedies for him to pursue, 1

     and there was -- there were no remedies for him.
 3
               THE COURT: Stop on that and let me hear defendants' 4 response.
 5
               Are you ready to respond to that?
               MS. SCHMIDT: I'm sorry, Your Honor.
 7
               THE COURT: Yeah.
               MS. SCHMIDT: Yes. What I would say is there are two
 9 issues here. In the memo, which is Exhibit 25 of -- Plaintiff's 10
     Exhibit Number 25 -- 11
               THE COURT: Okay.
               MS. SCHMIDT: -- Dennis Urban, in the e-mail dated 12
13 February 20th, 2002, advises the plaintiff that, any appeal of 14 this decision must be in accordance with established fire rescue 15 policy and procedures.
16
               And then in Gordon Ayoagi's deposition, which is -- 17
               THE COURT: And where are those policies and procedures? What are they? What were they?
19
               MS. SCHMIDT: I believe we attached them to our brief, 20
     Your Honor. But more importantly, Gordon Ayoaqi, who was the head of the Fire Rescue Commission --
22
               THE COURT: Right.
23
               MS. SCHMIDT: -- testified in his deposition, and 24 that's Exhibit 4 of the defendants' motion -- 25
               THE COURT: Their exhibit?
```

1
               All right. Get that, please, Exhibit 4.
               MS. SCHMIDT: -- at page 106 and 107 testified that, if a local volunteer fire department took an action on a serious violation, the employee could in fact appeal that decision to the Fire Rescue Commission. And at the time Gordon Ayoagi was the chairman, if you will, of the Fire Rescue Commission.
               THE COURT: Well, is that written somewhere, or is that just him saying that?
 9
               MS. SCHMIDT: That's what he testified to and that was 10 his interpretation of this 21-7.
11
               THE COURT: Now, who is -- Ayoagi is, what, the Fire 12
     Rescue --
13
               MS. SCHMIDT: He was the fire administrator and the -- 14
               THE COURT: I don't know that that gives it legal 15 authority, that's just his read on it. When he says -- tell me 16 what -- the Fire and Rescue Board is set up how? What -- tell 17
     me about that.
               MS. SCHMIDT: The Fire Rescue Commission --
19
               THE COURT: Commission, excuse me.
20
               MS. SCHMIDT: I'm sorry?
21
               THE COURT: No, I misspoke as to its name. Tell me 22 what is set up, how it's constructed.
23
               MS. SCHMIDT: It is set up by -- there are members of 24 the Fire and Rescue -- Montgomery County Fire and Rescue that 25 are on the board, as well as members at large, and they address
```

1
     not only appeals from volunteer fire departments' volunteers, they also address issues regarding fire rescue policy. For example --
 3
               THE COURT: Are they nominated by the county
 4
     executive, is that who --
               MS. SCHMIDT: Medical -- for example, medical
 7 qualifications for fire department personnel -- 8
               THE COURT: Are they nominated, the members, by the 9 county executive?
10
               MS. SCHMIDT: I believe they are, Your Honor. They're appointed by the county executive and confirmed by the county council.
12
13
               THE COURT: All right.
14
               MS. SCHMIDT: And at the time that these events took 15 place, Gordon Ayoagi, as the fire administrator, was the titular 16 head of the Fire Rescue Commission.
17
               THE COURT: Right. Understood. Any written policy 18 anywhere, though, that says that specifically in the event of a 19 discharge such as -- what did they call it, removal, such as was 20 said in the 2005 amendment, that that was also within the 21 competence of the board, or is that just something that Mr.
22
     Ayoagi felt was appropriate?
               MS. SCHMIDT: It was appropriate and it was the
24 practice at the time, Your Honor.
25
               THE COURT: Wasn't it written anywhere as far as you know?

MS. SCHMIDT: It was not, other than under 21-7(a)(2) where it says, An employee of a local fire and rescue department, a volunteer firefighter or rescue or other person aggrieved concerning any adverse action of a local fire and rescue department in carrying out a county law or regulation.

Certainly there's an argument to be made that there is a county law that says thou shall not discriminate or $-\!-$

THE COURT: Discriminate?

MS. SCHMIDT: -- violate someone's First Amendment right to free speech. And so certainly there is an argument to be made that it did. You know, the plaintiff is alleging that there was a violation of his First Amendment right to free speech, as well as under the State of Maryland Constitution and Declaration of Rights that that's a county law or regulation and that he would be able to appeal to the Fire Rescue Commission.

THE COURT: All right. Anything more on this point, Mr. Zaid?

MR. ZAID: Actually, if you look, for one, at Gordon Ayoagi's testimony, and this is actually Exhibit 7 -- it may be in the summary judgment, but Exhibit 7 to my reply brief is that selected version. And when I asked him did he know of anything that applied that would have allowed this, for one thing the county objected in saying it called for a legal conclusion, rightly so, and Mr. Ayoagi is not a lawyer, and it was an equivocal answer. He goes, it's been a while since I recalled the law, but my recollection there is that if an LFRD -- local fire rescue department --

Right?

-- takes an action on a serious -- on what is considered to be a serious violation that the employee could appeal that to the Fire and Rescue Commission. He's guessing. You know what, that's good for him. John Hugh in the Justice Department thought torture was proper, and we're finding out that his legal analysis probably wasn't that sound.

The fact of the matter is we now have, albeit late, and again my apologies, here is the applicable statute or regulation as it would be by the county that applied at the time. The language is very clear on its face. It doesn't matter how Dennis Urban interpreted it, it doesn't matter how Gordon Ayoagi interpreted it, it doesn't matter how the county attorney interpreted it unless it was issued in a policy legal memo, the county issued the reg and it says you can only appeal if you're carrying out a county law Regulation Commission policy or order of the administrator.

That argument has never been made by the defendant at any time, because it can't be. The defendant was imposing discipline on Mr. German because that's what they wanted to do, and there was no way for him to challenge it other than through litigation such as this unless we change the year from 2002 to 2005. So unless the defendant can come up with a statute that intervenes these two 1998 and 2005 policy changes, I'm not sure if there's anything else that really needs to be said.

THE COURT: All right. Hold on one second.

What I'm going to do, because this is a case with a lot of parts, I'm going to address some of these issues as we go sequentially in a — either a — and I'm going to give you my opinion in this case by the end of the day, so you'll have it orally. But because there's a lot to cover and we're looking at one issue at a time, I'm going to decide it in blocks, and then if it ever becomes appropriate to reorder my opinion, you can do so. So let's address this administrative issue first. And I'm not going to get into the recitation of facts at this point, because I'll do that when we get to the key issue in the case. But let's talk about the administrative issue.

Just, again, to begin by way of summary of the case, this is a case in which a volunteer fire official in the Bethesda Fire Department has sued for wrongful discharge and violation of First Amendment rights under the U.S. and Maryland Constitution. The central claim is that the defendant was dismissed in violation of these rights, but the immediate issue before the Court is whether he — as to the wrongful discharge claim, which is the State cause of action, whether he exhausted his available administrative remedies. And in that regard the defendant has argued that — or defendants have argued that the plaintiff did not exhaust available administrative remedies.

Let me go first to the primary argument made by the defendant.

According to the defendant, under Montgomery County

Code, Section 21-7(a), in effect — actually, I think the defendant began by citing a code section that was not in effect at the time, so I think I need to go back to that. The defendant's argument is essentially that there was an obligation on the part of the plaintiff under applicable administrative law to take any appeal to the Fire and Rescue Commission and thereafter, arguably, to the Merit System Protection Board.

That's the essence of the defendants' claim.

The actual citation to the applicable code, however, apparently refers to a section that was not in effect at the time of the events in question. The events in question are alleged to have taken place in October 2001 and early 2002.

The applicable Montgomery County code section that is before the Court is Section 21-7 of -- under Bill Number 37-97. I'm not quite certain -- I guess it's under the Code Chapter 2, Administration, Section 2-39(a), and then that section, I guess it's Chapter 21-7(a), is -- refers to the authority of the fire Commission to entertain appeals. And it says under sub (a) as of that time, sub (2), quote, any employee of the fire and rescue service or a local fire and rescue department, volunteer firefighter or rescuer, or other agreed person concerning any adverse action of the administrator or local fire and rescue department in carrying out a county law or regulation, commission policy, or order of the administrator would be an 2 appeal that, quote, the commission must hear and decide each 3 appeal filed by such a person, end quote.

 5
               Now, that was the applicable law. It does bear noting that that section was amended by Bill Number 36-03 effective
     January 1, 2005, post this transaction, and under 21-7(a)(2), 8 today it provides that an employee of the fire and rescue 9 service, including an employee of a local fire and rescue 10 department, a volunteer fire department or rescue or any other 11 person or -- aggrieved by any -- by an adverse final action of 12 the chief or a local fire and rescue department, comma -- I 13 quess, let's see, regulation, policy or lawful order -- hard to 14 see where this begins. I gather all that in middle brackets is 15 out; is that correct?
16
               MR. ZAID: That's my understanding.
17
               THE COURT: All right. I think that's right.
18
               MR. ZAID: On page two is the key.
19
               THE COURT: Let me go back and read that again, 20 because I'm having a little trouble. The double line is out.
21
               MS. SCHMIDT: I think, Your Honor, double underlining 22 is new.
23
               THE COURT: What about single under -- 24
               MS. SCHMIDT: Double bold face brackets eliminates.
25
               THE COURT: And single underlining is what?
```

1
               MS. SCHMIDT: Is added to existing law by original bill.
 3
               THE COURT: All right. So if we read 27 -- 21-7(a), not even (2) anymore, is it, (2) is out.
 5
               MR. ZAID: Actually, it may -- I have a feeling in one of our briefs we've cited -- we quoted from it in its present form so that you wouldn't have to -- 8
 7
               THE COURT: Where is that?
               MR. ZAID: Yeah, where you wouldn't have to figure out
10 brackets and underlines.
11
               THE COURT: Well, it looks like under sub (2), a 12 volunteer firefighter or rescuer.
13
               MR. ZAID: If you look on page 37 of the plaintiff's 14
     Summary Judgment Motion, I believe that's the current one.
15
               THE COURT: Thirty-seven, not Exhibit 37, but page 37.
16
17
               THE COURT: Of the Summary Judgment Motion?
               MS. SCHMIDT: I believe we have it at page 30 of our brief.
19
20
               THE COURT: Yes, the Summary Judgment Motion.
21
               MR. ZAID: Although looks like it's a little different 22 there as well. No, wait. No, no, it's not. Yeah, it's -- 23
               THE COURT: Right. I think you and I -- I think that 24 is the correct way.
25
               MR. ZAID: I think that's correct, fire --

THE COURT: Very well. This is the way the Montgomery County Code Section 21-7 reads effective 2005: Quote, a jurisdiction, except as provided the subsection (g), the Commission must hear and decide each appeal filed by a volunteer firefighter or rescuer aggrieved by an adverse final action of the chief or a local fire and rescue department involving the removal, demotion, or suspension of or other disciplinary action applied specifically to that individual. And then I gather (g) has no application to this case.

Now, if that — to the extent that those two versions of the law are placed together, there certainly was some uncertainty as of the date of the earlier legislation as to whether there was jurisdiction in the administrative board with regard to actions by voluntary firefighters involving their removal, demotion, or suspension. And this is now clarified by the amendment that says that they — that that is in fact the law.

So insofar as the argument is made that there was some obligatory administrative appeal that the defendant -- excuse me, that the plaintiff had to pursue at the time, the Court rejects that argument. The mere fact that the fire administrator himself may have read the language to have incorporated that type of jurisdiction of course gives it no particular weight at all. That's a legal interpretation and insofar as there is no obligation to pursue an administrative remedy, the Court finds as a matter of law that there is none.

All right. Now, let's take about a five-minute break, folks, and then we'll pick up again. All right.

(Recess.)

THE COURT: Counsel, I just wanted to add some remarks to my ruling, specifically because I didn't cite any authority, but want to.

There is a general rule under Maryland law that an administrative remedy should be exhausted or must be exhausted before there's recourse to courts, and that is stated in a number of cases. Among others, Holiday Point Marina Partners v. Anne Arundel County at 349 Maryland 190 of 707 A.2d 829, a 1998 case from the Court of Appeals. But there are — it is not an absolute rule. Poe v. City of Baltimore, at 241 Maryland 303, 216 A.2d at 707, there are various situations in which the rule does not apply. For example, where one case holds that where neither remedy — the administrative remedy nor judicial remedy is exclusive, then a plaintiff has an option to pursue the judicial remedy without invoking and exhausting the administrative remedy.

Again, the Holiday Point case is relevant here, but this is a case where it's hardly clear that there even is an administrative remedy or was as of the operative time. And as long as we're at it, of course, the Maryland courts have held that under the Federal Civil Rights Statue there is no exhaustion requirement to that effect, Esslinger v. Baltimore City at 95 Maryland App. 607, 622 A.2d 774, a 1993 case, Court of Special Appeals.

All right. Let's go to this first issue. Well, let's ask whether we really have any genuine dispute on causation here, that is a substantial factor in removing the plaintiff was in fact things that he said or did. Is that disputed here?

MS. SCHMIDT: A don't believe so, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. SCHMIDT: I mean, quite frankly, both Virginia
Miller and Dennis Urban said that the decision to discipline him was based upon the fact that he made these statements --

THE COURT: All right.

MS. SCHMIDT: -- both regarding Executive Duncan's wife, as well as to the media, and that because of the reaction that they received from the county they felt they needed to do something.

THE COURT: Well, I don't think you need to argue that further, because I think that with regard to -- I already made my remarks with regard to the statement about, I don't want your job or your wife. I don't think that would be a sufficient basis for anything. At most, it's ambiguous and certainly would not be a reasonable justification under the circumstances, so that we really are back to focusing on the issue of whether the plaintiff was terminated because of things that he said relative to the readiness and preparedness of the -- of the fire and rescue services.

The issue of whether it is a matter of public concern, is that disputed?

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, again, in our pleadings we have indicated that I think generally given the 9-11 era, everyone assumed that issues regarding the county's preparedness was in fact a matter of public concern, although as I understand it, it is a question of law for the Court. And under the cases I believe that it's your right to certainly review the facts on their own and make your own analysis as to whether or not it was in fact a matter of public concern.

THE COURT: All right. Anything you want to say on that point, Mr. Zaid?

MR. ZAID: No, sir.

THE COURT: Again, before I get into factual recitation in this case, which I think is agreed upon, I'm going to address that specific aspect of the First Amendment retaliation claim. There is a multistep analysis that is used to resolve these First Amendment retaliation claims, Pickery v. Board of Education is certainly the leading case from the Supreme Court, 391 U.S. 563, a 1963, a 1968; Connick v. Myers as well at 461 U.S. 138. The Court first does determine whether the employee's speech can be, quote, fairly characterized as constituting speech on a matter of public concern, and then if so, the Court moves on to other factors.

There's no question that the issue of preparedness of the county in the event of a possible terrorist attack would — was a matter of public concern, certainly to the extent that public law enforcement and, in this case, fire rescue people are involved in raising issues that go to that matter are matters of public concern, the Court so holds as a matter of law. So we don't need to revisit that issue again.

Really the core issue, then, because I think we've answered issue three, assuming that the balancing of the factors that we'll talk about momentarily tips in favor of the plaintiff, then the Court would move to the third step, which would require the employee to prove that the protected speech was a motivating factor in the detrimental employment decision. And here, that's essentially conceded that he was removed because of the speech, unless you want to say more about that, Ms. Schmidt.

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, I think, quite frankly, based upon the deposition testimony of the board members, as well as Miller and Urban, it was — it was a collective — the statements that were made and the effect that they had on the department, they felt they needed to do something to respond to the county's concerns.

THE COURT: All right. And I'm assuming that it would be the defendants' position that even if it was a motivating factor, while you would argue that you would have shown by -- 1 tried to show by a preponderance of the evidence that you would 2 have reached the same decision in the absence of protected 3 activity, that is the remark made about Mr. Duncan's wife, that 4 that's the argument you would make in that regard; is that 5 correct?

 7
               MS. SCHMIDT: That's correct, Your Honor.
               THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I think I've 8 addressed that. I don't think that -- that certainly does not
10 demonstrate as a matter of law by a preponderance of evidence 11 that the county --
               MS. SCHMIDT: Right. And, Your Honor, just -- just so 12 that we're clear, I mean, the issue with respect to -- and we 13 14
     kind of talked about this a little bit before the break, in 15
     terms of the e-mail from Chief Urban referencing the proposal, 16
     if you will. Certainly, the question is not only the speech, 17 but the fact that he refused to accept any discipline. And so they, you know, interpreted that --
19
               THE COURT: Well, if in fact his speech is protected, 20 that's moot, isn't it? No discipline is in order if he's 21 correct.
22
               MS. SCHMIDT: If he's correct, although there still is 23 the question, the remark with respect to the county executive.
24
     And just, again, making the record, Your Honor.
25

THE COURT: I'm saying to you that that remark is so ambiguous and at most a neutral statement that it's nothing. If mean, the fact that he didn't accept discipline for a remark that could be entirely innocuous is certainly not, as a matter of law — I'm saying it is not, as a matter of law, compelling to me to somehow result in a grant of summary judgment in your favor on that point.

MS. SCHMIDT: Okay.

THE COURT: All right. So we don't need to argue it.

There is a threshold issue, of course, that we have to talk about when one speaks about a matter of public concern.

Yes, the question, however, that is in dispute is whether he's speaking as a citizen and whether he's speaking as a public official. And then we get into the — even then, the balancing test. So let's start on the issue of whether the Plaintiff in this case, Mr. German, was speaking as a — as a citizen upon a matter of public concern or whether he was speaking as a matter of his official capacity.

MR. ZAID: Thank you, Your Honor.

This issue obviously became more paramount because of the Garcetti decision by the Supreme Court. We touched upon this a little bit last year. My recollection from my notes is that you actually didn't think that Garcetti was going to be an issue, which doesn't necessarily mean you feel the same way today, of course, following more detailed briefing, although I think the basic facts that were even known at that point were sufficient.

But the factual testimony certainly from my client was that he was always speaking out as a private citizen. The statements from the factual testimony of the defendants, particularly Chief Urban and Virginia Miller, was that he wasn't -- Mr. German was not speaking for the department. This is all what's in writing and indisputable.

Now, the counter to that was from some of the defendants in the sense of the board members and Chief Urban that, well, you can't wear two hats at the same time. I suppose in a — somewhat of a stretched analogy, we can look at what's going on in modern day with President Carter being over in the Middle East. You know, is he acting on behalf of the United States. He's a former President of the United States, but he's there in his private capacity as a citizen, notwithstanding the fact that his prior role and current, so to speak, brings a little bit of attention.

Our position actually would be from a Garcetti analysis that, no, this wasn't an internal aspect. In Garcetti, as I recall, Mr. Garcetti wrote a memorandum that went up the chain of command where he was complaining about how some of the court proceedings were going and he didn't think they were fair or — with criminal cases, and that memo —

THE COURT: Whether a warrant was adequately based and whether there should have been a prosecution based on it.

MR. ZAID: And then when he didn't get the result he wanted, he took it outside. So he didn't get the internal results that he wanted as an attorney pushing this issue.

Mr. German was not — this was an issue that had been in existence for a while, even before Mr. German was associated with the Bethesda Fire Department. The facts in the record are that the county purchased these suits in 1998, '99, and that this was a known issue that they were discussing. Mr. German became a member of the department in 2001. And that's one reason why he was making comments when he told the reporters that he's the former chief of the Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue Squad, not speaking on behalf of the Bethesda Fire Department. So I do not believe you have a Garcetti issue there present at all.

THE COURT: Let me ask you this: Does the record reveal the extent to which any of these -- I gather the point is that none of this equipment was available in Bethesda; is that right? Or not a sufficient number of suits available in Bethesda?

MR. ZAID: Well, it wasn't -- it wasn't -- it actually wasn't a Bethesda issue, it was a county issue. There were X number of suits, 300, something like that, whatever number.

MS. SCHMIDT: 150.

MR. ZAID: Hundred and fifty, 150. Yes, 150 suits purchased to do X. Now, clearly that's not enough to, you know,

1 be distributed to the county as a whole, and they were stored at Station 7, which is the logical place because that's the hazmat 2 station. There's allegations in dispute, but it doesn't --3 THE COURT: Station 7 is Chevy Chase? 4 5 MR. ZAID: That's the Chevy Chase. THE COURT: All right. 6 7 MR. ZAID: Actually, the factual disputes surrounding the suits in the sense of were they available, were they not 8 9 available, could they have been distributed to --10 THE COURT: Were they supposed to be available to all the firefighters in the county, is that the theory, or do you 11 12 know? 13 MR. ZAID: I don't think you need to worry about that, 14 because the case law actually says the truth of that issue is 15 irrelevant. 16 THE COURT: Well, I wonder whether it is. The reason 17 I ask is because as I read Garcetti it may be whether he's 18 saying something that is within his job description, what he's 19 supposed to be talking about, or whether he's outside. Now, if 20 he's commenting on an issue of policy in general around the 21 county, that's one thing. If he's -- part of his description, 22 part of his job description is to specify when supplies are --23 when certain materials are in short supply in his department and 24 he's addressing it in that context, or at least if arguably he's

1
               MR. ZAID: No -- yes. No, that never came up. In fact, Chief Urban testified, though I was somewhat surprised, that he didn't even know about the suits being over there. So this was not a function of Mr. German's --
 5
               THE COURT: Well, what is it that German is saying about them?
 7
               MR. ZAID: What was he saying about the suits?
               THE COURT: Yeah, what does he say?
 8
               MR. ZAID: That they weren't being distributed to the 9 10 county, to the different departments -- 11
               THE COURT: Throughout the county.
12
               MR. ZAID: Throughout all the county to the differ 13 volunteer departments.
14
               THE COURT: And did he say that there weren't enough 15 suits?
16
               MR. ZAID: I believe that was part of it. I mean -- 17
               THE COURT: Well, let's go to one of his -- let's go to one of the exhibits and -- 18 19
               Jo Anna, come up, please.
20
               MS. SCHMIDT: My recollection, Your Honor, is one of 21 the concerns is that there had not been fit testing, annual fit 22 tests for the suits.
23
               THE COURT: All right. Let's go to some remarks that 24
     he makes in particular, typical remarks.
25
               MR. ZAID: Okay. If we look in the facts of the
```

Summary Judgment Motion, I know I quoted them, so, for example, 1 page three and four, in the Washington Post he said, the bottom 2 line is the equipment they have not -- they have -- I think I 3 have an error there -- they have not been put in place to protect firefighters. Gazette, it says --
               THE COURT: Your motion?
 7
               MR. ZAID: I'm sorry?
               THE COURT: Three and four; is that right.
 8
               MR. ZAID: In the Summary Judgment Motion in the 9 10
     factual section, pages three and four are the quotes.
11
               THE COURT: Let's see.
12
               MR. ZAID: Starting at the bottom paragraph.
13
               THE COURT: Very good.
14
               MR. ZAID: Starts, within the Washington Post article.
15
     So the quote from the Post is there.
16
               And the next page it talks about the Gazette, and that 17 quote was, I think the county is a little bit behind the 18 eightball.
19
               And then in the Associated Press article, which was 20 also in the Montgomery Journal, it says, we're not going to 21 expose ourselves without having the equipment to protect 22 ourselves, and that's like going to get the firehose so you can 23 put the fire out.
24
               THE COURT: Very good. That's fine, that gives me 25 enough of a predicate.
```

1
               MR. ZAID: I'm sorry?
               THE COURT: That's fine.
 3
               MR. ZAID: Okay. And there are declarations in the record, I don't think all of which are being moved to be stricken from the other -- some of the other officers who spoke out who were making it very clear this was a county issue that they were all concerned about. You have the bylaws from the 8 department, you have multiple copies, because the department was 9 never able to produce actually what was in effect specifically 10 at the time. But I think we're all of agreement that there is 11 no job description.
 7
12
               THE COURT: All right. Is it undisputed that German 13 never said, I am currently the deputy chief at Bethesda?
14
               MR. ZAID: It is undisputed there is no quote that he 15 said that, there is an affiliation reference in one of the 16 articles.
17
               THE COURT: All right.
18
               MR. ZAID: But he denies telling the reporter to put 19 that in.
20
               THE COURT: All right. Very good.
21
               MR. ZAID: Presumably the reporter found out or maybe 22 was told the background and --
               THE COURT: And is it undisputed that he was not in 23 24 uniform at any time when he -- 25
               MR. ZAID: That's undisputed.
```

THE COURT: All right.

THE COURT: All right. What more?

MR. ZAID: There are, as you know, and cited in the brief, I don't think I segregated it, discussions of, you know, there are nuances where the employers can speak in a private capacity, in a public capacity, and even in a public capacity, of course, that's been modified to some extent by Garcetti.

But getting beyond that, you want me to get into the details on the First Amendment argument, or do you want me to follow up further on this motion?

THE COURT: Let's just stay on what capacity he's in at this point. We'll talk about the First Amendment -- the balancing issue momentarily.

MR. ZAID: I think the key really for that for you to see is German says he's in his private capacity and Chief Urban and the department is saying, you weren't — clearly you weren't speaking for us. And again, there are nuances, then, of these post hoc arguments, well, you can't distinguish yourself one or the other. You know, I don't think that's a legal issue that fits into Garcetti. And again — and the county wasn't, as I recall from the county testimony, they — obviously, they knew he was a member of Bethesda, but they were looking at Lewis German making these comments. I believe Gordon Ayoagi testified at one point, that, oh, you know, jeez, you know, German does this. And in fact, I put in the brief there's testimony by Chief Urban that he knows that Mr. German would go to the press when there were issues that related to fire safety, rescue services. Mr. German had been in the service of the fire rescue service for almost four decades, since the '60s. So this is someone who was, you know, very, very dedicated to volunteerism in the county for fire and rescue services. So any issue, you know, he took a stance on, and when he felt that the county wasn't dealing with some issue, he would push it.

And again, of course, what's of interest here, this wasn't an issue that he was making about Bethesda, it was an issue he was raising about the county, which is obviously much larger than Bethesda. I'm not sure, unless you have something specific, I have further on --

THE COURT: No, I just want to hear you on this issue.

I'd like to hear the defendants in response.

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, certainly the plaintiff contends in this case the fact that he's not — he did not identify himself as being a deputy chief with the Bethesda Fire Department or was not wearing Bethesda Fire Department gear, that that in and of itself proves that he is speaking as a private citizen. However, there is no question that the county, and all we need to do is look at Gordon Ayoagi's memorandum of October 24th, 2001, where clearly the county, the fire rescue, and even Executive Duncan assumed that there was a legitimate question as to whether or not the plaintiff was speaking and acting on behalf of the Bethesda Fire Department. And, of course, in their damage control, the defendants, President Miller and Chief Urban, come out and say in their correspondence to the county and their testimony, no, we did not authorize him to speak on behalf of the department, he is not our spokesperson, you know, we do not adopt the statements that he's made. But there's no question that the county certainly perceived the statements that were being made and Mr. German's actions as being something that was being done on behalf of the Bethesda Fire Department.

When we look at the testimony of the board members as they were considering the plaintiff's appeal, they too felt like it was a situation — and I think specifically Mr. Murgolo testified that he believed there was no way that the plaintiff could separate himself from his position within the fire service, and that in and of itself, given his reputation within the community, that he clearly was speaking in an official capacity.

The other issue, quite frankly, is the one that I raised earlier, and that is the question of the plaintiff taking one of the reporters to the Chevy Chase station. We have the affidavit of Chief Stephan who indicated that no, you know, Joe Citizen off the street would not be able to come into the Chevy Chase Fire Department and say, I would like to see the biohazard suits that you have in your basement. Again, if Mr. German was 1 not affiliated with the fire service and was not recognized as 2 being involved in the fire service and a member of the Bethesda 3 Fire Department, there certainly is a legitimate question as to 4 5 whether or not he would have been able to take a reporter --THE COURT: Well, was he being reprimanded for taking 6 7 the reporter or for what he said? I don't see anything in the 8 dismissal that said, you took a reporter to the service -- to 9 the --10 MS. SCHMIDT: There's not --11 THE COURT: -- to the facility. MS. SCHMIDT: There was nothing in the letter of 12 13 reprimand with respect to taking the reporter. But the question 14 is in the statements that were made and in the articles that 15 appeared, it was very clear that through Mr. German this 16 reporter got access to the suits. 17 THE COURT: Is that what it says? Does it say in the article, German took us there? 18 19 MS. SCHMIDT: Oh, it doesn't say in the article that 20 he took them there. Mr. German testified to that. But it does 21 indicate in the Montgomery Journal article of Wednesday, 22 October 10th, voluntary firefighter and former chief of the 23 Bethesda Chevy Chase station, Lewis German, said he's concerned

use them. And then he says, they aren't telling people where the suits are, German said, referring to a stock of 150 bio suits in the Chevy Chase Fire Department.

So again, that information would not have come to light but for Mr. German, and he would not have had access to those suits but for his official position within the Bethesda fire service.

MR. ZAID: If I may, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Go ahead, you may respond.

MR. ZAID: That last statement in particular has no factual basis whatsoever in the record, it is only a statement by counsel. There is nothing that indicates Mr. German got access to that station but for the fact he was a member of the Bethesda Fire Department. He was the former chief of the Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue Squad for whatever number of years and a member there for 30-plus. Everybody knew him. I think in fact he testified that he recognized the guy who was at the station who never said — the people never said anything from his days in the rescue squad.

This was never an issue raised by the county back then. It was never an issue raised by the department back then. All these woe is Chicken Little, the sky is falling, the terrorists know where the suits are only came up as a smart degree of lawyering as part of the defense in this lawsuit. You'll find nothing in the newspapers, you'll have the press conference that Executive Duncan gave the next morning saying nothing about any concern of reporters getting into the departments. People knew about it. They had open houses at this department. You've got declarations from a member who was at that department. I mean, I can give you factual evidence from my time in the department. It's so easy to get into these departments. But I think this is all irrelevant. That's why I didn't even oppose the late filing of Stephan's declaration, because even to the degree it's minimally relevant is not a material fact that has anything to do with the First Amendment discipline that was imposed on this particular case.

How this story came to be is not part of the equation except for the narrow sense that you're looking at it from a Garcetti standpoint. And, you know, there was a Fourth Circuit case preceded Garcetti, but my recollection from looking at it is it's not inconsistent with Garcetti, Urofsky v. Gilmore, 216 F.3d 401, that I cite from 2000 in the Fourth Circuit, it's on page 16 of my summary judgment brief where they're talking about critical to a determination. In fact, I think the Fourth Circuit was actually ahead of the Supreme Court about Garcetti from what I can tell, in the sense that Garcetti was more in sync with what the Fourth Circuit was thinking than the other way around, which wasn't unusual back at that point.

Critical to a determination — this is in quotes — of whether employee's speech is entitled to First Amendment protection is whether the speech is made primarily in the employee's role as citizen or primarily in his role as employee, end quote, thus saying, my interpretation, that even to some degree there was involvement from his official capacity, it wasn't a primary one, and there's no factual evidence in the record that the defendants could point to that would justify that, either contemporaneously or even currently other than post hoc lawyering.

THE COURT: Anything further on that point?

MS. SCHMIDT: The only thing that I would point out, Your Honor, is certainly at the time that Gordon Ayoagi testified — and I just want the record to be clear, I did not represent Mr. Ayoagi in his deposition, he was represented by the county attorney's office. And in his deposition testimony he did in fact point out that he had concerns that here was someone letting the public know and potential terrorists know where the suits were located. So it's not lawyering, it was a legitimate concern that the county expressed through Gordon Ayoagi. It was a legitimate concern that the board had, and that was simply that there was this impression out there, and certainly Mr. Ayoagi's statements in his memo confirm that, that they believed at the time he made those statements the plaintiff was acting on behalf of Bethesda.

MR. ZAID: Can I say one final sentence, Your Honor? The test, even under Garcetti, is not the perception of others as to how the person was acting, it was the role of the individual who acted. And I think that makes all the distinction and undercuts, actually, all of what defense counsel has said.

THE COURT: All right. Let me address this issue now, and we're still on the issue of whether there is a matter of public concern, because not only is the topic, of course, one of public concern, as the Court cited, but the Court needs to determine whether the employee is speaking as a citizen upon a matter of public concern or whether this is a matter of — in which the individual is speaking in an official capacity in some ways that a la the Garcetti case.

Garcetti did involve an assistant prosecutor in Los Angeles who disagreed with the facts that were put forth in a search warrant, I believe, and recommended after his investigation that prosecution should not go forward. He put that up the line to his supervisors, was overruled and criticized and then shortly after terminated —— I think was assigned some inferior positions and may have been terminated after.

And it's not entirely clear where we come out on Garcetti, but there have been cases since, and they do largely seem to suggest that if it's in the ordinary duties of an employee to say or do certain things and they write internal memoranda or they say things in that connection that the bright line test will be that they don't have any First Amendment claim if they are overruled and even terminated in consequence of that. And so the issue is the extent to which that bright line test in Garcetti plays over into this case.

Let us first focus on the fact that the plaintiff,

German, is the deputy chief of the Bethesda Fire Department.

There's nothing in the description of his duties that says that he is only required — may only make criticisms of what's going on generally in the county through his position as the deputy chief of the fire department. There's no written description of his duties before the Court and — that would indicate that that's so. The only evidence that the Court has from the defendants is in effect that he was the deputy fire chief and was known as such and that on that basis it was hard to — it would be hard to distinguish his remarks made in an individual capacity from remarks made in an official capacity.

The law on this point, I think, needs to be recited a little more precisely. When determining these matters, the Court needs to look at the context — the content form and context of the statement and then, beyond that, the forum in which the statement is made, and again, of course, whether there's a broader public purpose other than some personal interest involved.

In this case you've got the following remarks being made by the plaintiff, German, never in uniform and never identifying himself as a current chief -- or deputy chief of the Bethesda Fire Department. According to the uncontested allegations in the Washington Post, he was identified only as a volunteer firearm with no specific affiliation and he said that, quote, the bottom line is the equipment that they have has not been put in place to protect firefighters.

And we're talking about, in a sense, the country's preparedness of biochemical attack, we're talking about a perceived lack of adequate protection in Montgomery County, specifically with respect to and as related further on the protective suits that were maintained to provide protection against biochemical effects and other protective gear that would be used by fire rescue personnel in the event of a biochemical attack. So that is his first remark, quote, the bottom line is equipment the equipment they have has not been put in place to protect firefighters, end quote.

And then in the Montgomery Gazette German was identified as, quote, the former chief of the Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue Squad, end quote. The reporter, apparently on the reporter's own, added that German was a, quote, volunteer firefighter with the Bethesda Fire Department. No indication of his official status or that he was speaking on behalf of the department.

The position that German takes is he did not indicate that he was affiliated with Bethesda Fire Department. He did say, quote, I think the county is a little bit behind the eightball, end quote.

There were other statements that were attributable to German, either made in the Associated Press and/or the Montgomery Journal. Attributed to him was the following statement, quote, we are not going to expose ourselves without having the equipment to protect ourselves, end quote, and, quote, that's like going to get the firehose so you can put the fire out, end quote.

And then another quote that is attributed to the plaintiff in the Montgomery Journal is, quote, they aren't telling people where the suits are, end quote. Quote, nobody has told the people in the field how they are going to be deployed, end quote.

And according to the plaintiff, these same sentiments or substantially the same sentiments were also expressed by other fire officials, including Captain Bosco of the Rockville Fire Department, Volunteer Fire Department, Chief Stanton of the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department, Assistant Chief Peter Morris of the Bethesda Chevy Chase Rescue Squad, and Chief Robert McHenry of the Gaithersburg Volunteer Fire Department.

Now, those are the statements that are made, and the Court, of course, looks at the context of the cases, the -- generally speaking, the forum that the plaintiff chose to address was the press, the media, and there were no internal memoranda that were submitted to the Bethesda Fire Department chief, nor is it indicated that it was any part of the duty of German to submit memoranda to the Bethesda Fire Department on these issues, which clearly were countywide in their scope and not specifically related to the Bethesda Fire Department, so that given the high favor that is given to statements, particularly by law enforcement or fire personnel, with regard to malfeasance or unpreparedness, and given the fact that both Chief Urban and President Miller suggested that plaintiff was not acting in his official capacity, certainly there's no basis to conclude as a matter of law, as the defendants would have it, that the plaintiff was acting in an official capacity.

There is a very strong inclination on the part of the Court to say that as a matter of law he was not. I'll defer on that for now, because I'll have something to say toward the end of the case about whether he was or was not. But frankly, the scale -- I don't want to talk in terms of scale right now, because that's really the next prop in the analysis. But in terms of the relative positions of the parties, it's clear to the Court that this was a matter of public concern, and that it's almost -- the Court is close to saying as a matter of law that it was something that was stated by the plaintiff in his private capacity, notwithstanding the fact that he was a firefighter, which many of these people are. The question is as a firefighter does he retain some ambit of free speech, and the answer is he does. And so there's a strong argument to make, not conclusive, at least as far as the Court is prepared to say at this moment, that in fact it was made privately, that it certainly was not made publicly — was not made officially.

Now, the real issue, of course, which we get to in this case is to balance the employee's rights against the employer's interest. And the Court has to consider, again, the manner, time, place, and context of the expression. The balancing test obviously is that the free speech rights are protected unless the employer can show that some restriction is necessary to prevent the disruption of official functions or to assure effective performance of the employee, and among these considerations would be whether the statement impairs the discipline by superiors, harmony among co-workers, whether there's a detrimental impact on the close working relationships for which personal loyalty and confidence are necessary, or whether the speech somehow impedes the performance of the speaker's duties or interferes with the regular operation of the enterprise.

Now, it is also clear that the government may not rely, in this case the county or the rescue authorities, could not rely on purely speculative allegations that certain statements have caused or will cause disruption to justify the regulation in the speech. So with that context I will hear you, Mr. Zaid, first, on that issue, the balancing factors.

MR. ZAID: Thank you, Your Honor.

Again, I think the key case here is the Goldstein case. Secondarily the McVey v. Stacey case, which also handed up from 1998 of the Fourth Circuit, which, of course, Goldstein refers to. I think there are some aspects of the McVey case that aren't as articulated as much. In particular, there are nine factors relative to the inquiry that we are discussing here about the public employee's speech. And I'll note in Hall v. Marion, Fourth Circuit, 1994 case — all these are in the brief, of course — when an employee's speech substantially involves matters of public concern, the government must — in quotes, must make a stronger showing of disruption in order to prevail, end quote.

Now, the defendants have produced not one concrete example supporting their allegations of disruption or inability to operate efficiently. This is what the factual record shows beyond a reasonable doubt: No interference with the department's ability to operationally function; no impact on the safety of the community; no dissention within the ranks and files of the Bethesda Fire Department; no complaints from the citizens; no creation of conflict or comradery with other fire departments; and according to the fire — from the county officials, from Executive Duncan, from Mr. Romer, from Mr. Ayoagi, no real issue existed between them that went beyond a very short term, essentially a month — not even a month, two, three weeks. And in fact, I think that's reflected by the defendants' own actions where they said, Mr. German, you can come back as deputy chief in six months if you agree to this. So clearly they weren't too concerned that this was going to be a continuing source of friction between the department and the county.

Now, it is true, and the defendants have provided selected quotes from various board members that gave vague speculative statements that standing alone would give some support that there were some issues going on. It doesn't matter. The burden here is on the defendant to articulate specific examples, as you referenced.

The Fourth Circuit in '97 in Detrick v. Panalpina, 108 F.3d 529 536, a mere scintilla of evidence in support of the non-movant's position will not defeat a Motion for Summary Judgment.

You cited Goldstein, or you were reading from I believe Goldstein, about yield to specific allegations of the plaintiff and generalized and unsubstantiated. I'll give you a couple other — two cases in the Eighth Circuit talked about to trigger this test there has to be specificity that there was workplace disharmony and impeding the performance.

In 2007, the Eighth Circuit indicated again in Lindsey v. City of Orrick, 491 F.3d 892-900, mere allegations that speech disrupted the workplace or affected morale without evidentiary support are insufficient.

And the defendants themselves in the briefs and certainly in the depositions said that many of the statements ultimately didn't have any impact, that they were just saying, we need to maintain harmony, et cetera, et cetera, but that there was no evidence of this.

What they're asking you to do is what the Fourth

Circuit rejected in Goldstein, to, quote, effectively endorse a red line of silence, end quote, so that anytime a fire department member or official or however capacity that they may be in in some form are not permitted to go out and discuss issues that are going to be to the better of the community if somehow it causes some disruption.

Now, some of the cases go into from different circuits even a little bit more. The Third Circuit in Brennan v. Norton, 350 F.3d 399 at 414 says, the right of expression would mean little if an employee could be silenced whenever his or her voice caused any degree of disruption or discomfort for a public employer. The, again, Third Circuit said, the speech may no doubt — no doubt may disrupt and demoralize much of the public workplace, but that if there is any disruption, it is only a weight on the balancing scale.

It doesn't matter, though. There is no evidentiary weight. There is nothing that is in the record to support any type of factual evidence.

Now, some of the declarations that are part of the Motion to Strike go to this point.

2 THE COURT: You don't need to get into those.

MR. ZAID: The only thing I'll say I think in closing on this, Your Honor, obviously absent any questions, from a procedural standpoint, in the plaintiff's statement of material facts not in dispute, paragraphs 23 through 26, so the document obviously filed with our Summary Judgment Motion in November, paragraphs 23 to 26 deal specifically with this issue of the extent of disruption.

Now, the defendants did not contest those paragraphs in their response to the statement. Now, candidly some of those issues they've certainly challenged in their legal briefs, but as a procedural aspect, they did not challenge those paragraphs that dealt with workplace harmony and disruption and what impact German's statements had on the relationships between the career firefighters — which is always a terrible word, because the volunteers hate that because they're just as much career — the paid firefighters and the volunteer firefighters or the department and the county. So as a legal matter I'll leave that to you as to the extent of which that has a role in here. But there's a conflict or contradiction between the defendants' procedural response and some of their substantive arguments.

THE COURT: All right. Ms. Schmidt.

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, to address that issue first,

I would point out in the defendants' -- let me get the formal

1 title, Defendants' Response to Plaintiff's Statement of Material Facts, to which there are no genuine issue, and Defendants' 2 Statement of Material Facts Not in Dispute, specifically at page 3 five, paragraph 20, says, there is a genuine issue of material 4 5 fact regarding plaintiff statement number 22. Whether the county or county officials would reduce Bethesda Fire 6 7 Department's funding because of plaintiff's statements to the press was a real concern to the defendants. 8 9

Thereafter, in paragraph --

THE COURT: He says there's a genuine dispute in that regard; is that what you said?

MS. SCHMIDT: That's correct, Your Honor. Plaintiff's paragraph 21, the defendants say plaintiff's statements to the present tarnished the reputation of the Bethesda Fire Department.

Paragraph 22, plaintiff's statement to the press also interfered with Bethesda Fire Department's abilities to perform its functions and responsibilities because it exacerbated relationships between the Bethesda Fire Department and county leadership.

And it goes down the page, Your Honor. So I would submit that, in essence, the defendants did in fact dispute those facts.

As the Court knows, under Connick there is not a necessity for an employer to allow events to unfold to the

1 extent that the disruption of the office and the destruction of any working relationship is manifest before taking action. 2 In this case, as we talked about, there is the issue 3 that clearly there is sufficient deposition testimony for the 4 Court to look at. The plaintiff's statements to the press 5 undermine the confidence in the county and fire rescue at a time 6 7 when the nation was dealing --THE COURT: What do you mean, undermine confidence in 8 9 the county? What does that mean? 10 MS. SCHMIDT: In that the --11 THE COURT: Can't you always say that in the context of a case, anything that criticizes the department undermines 12 13 confidence in it? 14 MS. SCHMIDT: I think, Your Honor, in the balancing 15 test we have to look at the context in which this happened. 16 THE COURT: Let me ask you, do you have one affidavit 17 from one citizen that said, based on what German said I have less confidence in the county? 18 19 MS. SCHMIDT: No, Your Honor, we do not. 20 THE COURT: All right. That's speculative. Try 21 something else. 22 MS. SCHMIDT: Mr. Ayoagi testified in his deposition 23 that the county officials were forced to hold a meeting of all county volunteer chiefs in response to the statements that were made, and that's at page 60 and 61 of his deposition. He testified that they needed to stop undermining the competence of the fire service. His testimony is that the matter should be --

THE COURT: The people who were being criticized obviously were upset. Is that enough?

MS. SCHMIDT: I think it went beyond that, Your Honor. I mean, they felt that they -- the county needed to respond to these concerns in that post 9-11 era.

THE COURT: Well, maybe the county looked bad by reason of what was said. So when you said undermine confidence in the county, you mean -- meaning maybe it made the officials nervous. I want to hear how it undermined the confidence in the department.

MS. SCHMIDT: And I will get to that, Your Honor. In terms of the statements that he made, they certainly reflected negatively on the relationship between the career and volunteer firefighters in Montgomery County. As you alluded to, there is a longstanding history of conflict between career and volunteer. Certainly Mr. Ayoagi and Mr. Duncan testified in their depositions that they believed that that in fact was what they were trying to do, is insert a further wedge between career and volunteer firefighters. He was concerned that that be, you know, dealt with in an expeditious manner.

Certainly the statements to the press affected the relationship between Fire Rescue officials and Bethesda.

Mr. Ayoagi testified in his deposition that the statements concerned him, he wanted to know if in fact Mr. German was representing Bethesda's position. You have the letter from Mr. Ayoagi of October 24th, 2001, where he clearly had some concerns, and it did in fact affect or change the nature of the relationship between the parties.

Mr. Ayoagi testified that he was concerned that if the members of the Bethesda Fire Department did not have confidence in their leadership that it would affect service. Mr. Urban, Chief Urban, testified that up to this point there was a good working relationship between Bethesda and the county, and then there was this concern that in fact he's getting pulled into meetings, he's being asked to provide letters of apology, there are specific questions whether or not —

THE COURT: Every time someone criticizes particularly a law enforcement officer, people, his superiors or the people who are responsible for what gave rise to the criticism, and they have to react and get upset about it, is that enough to basically squash the — to outweigh the First Amendment right, because the people who are criticized are upset?

MS. SCHMIDT: I don't -- I think it goes beyond that, quite frankly, the facts in this case, Your Honor. I mean, the question --

THE COURT: Well, tell me who beyond the people who were criticized were upset, except the people who fired him.

MS. SCHMIDT: Well, there were volunteer chiefs and there were also members. Mr. Murgolo, who was a board member, testified in his deposition that he recalled there were members of the Bethesda Fire Department who were county employees who were making inquiries, like what are you doing at Bethesda, why are you making these statements? So Bethesda was a little bit of a hybrid, unlike other stations in Montgomery County that are volunteer fire departments but they have a volunteer staff as well as a career staff. Bethesda Fire Department had three volunteers, they were all chief officers, and their fire board was also volunteers but not involved in the fire service. The only people who were providing fire services other than the three volunteer chiefs were all county employees. And Mr. Murgolo believed that it did in fact effect the relationship between those county employees who were assigned to Bethesda and the Bethesda Fire Department.

The record also includes a number of statements from board members and Virginia Miller indicating that they were concerned that this issue was going to affect their funding.

Now, the fact that it did not happen post — you know, several months down the road. The inquiry really is the fact that they are dealing with an issue. The county is giving them pressure, they need to respond, and it is impairing their ability to proceed with the issues they had ongoing with the department.

For example, the Station 20 issue.

The plaintiff would have us disregard any of the statements that were made by Mr. Ayoagi or board members that they were concerned about that relationship, but it was a legitimate concern, and out of that legitimate concern they felt they needed to do something. There were discussions with the plaintiff trying to mete out some sort of cooling-off period, some sort of discipline in response to the questions that they were being asked from the county, and they proceed down the line. And then plaintiff says, yes, I will accept something less than termination. Of course, he denies that, but that's the testimony of Chief Urban, and then leads him down that path to the point where, no, I'm not going to accept any discipline, I'm not going to issue a letter of apology, don't feel that I need to do one, and it then becomes an issue of insubordination within the department.

one of his subordinates, does it raise a question of the chain of command, does it raise questions regarding the efficacy of the leadership at the Bethesda Fire Department? And those are the concerns that the department and its board and Virginia Miller and Dennis Urban had with respect to the issue and — the ongoing issue with plaintiff.

THE COURT: All right. Further response?

MR. ZAID: Very briefly, Your Honor. Generalized and unsubstantiated allegations of disruptions and predictions thereof, that's the standard. That's all that's been asserted the way, the board members who are volunteers who show up as in the record maybe one a month, if that, and have nothing to do with the operational aspects of the department, don't interact with the firefighters, don't have any idea. Maybe Mr. Murgolo had water cooler talk with someone, I have no idea. But I do know when we took these depositions I saw lots of Bethesda firefighters walking in and out of the department. I haven't seen one declaration or one deposition that I participated in giving evidence of any of this disruption.

The county officials made it very clear that the funding issue, which is nothing more than a red herring, was never on the table, never articulated, never intimated, didn't even have the authority, it's a county council decision on funding. Now we're really getting conspiratorial as to the impact that Mr. German's comments had.

The bottom line, I don't know, and maybe — I wasn't there when these things happened, I don't know the conversations that took place between Chief Urban and Deputy Chief German. I know what the record reflects. I know that there's no evidence whatsoever other than Chief Urban now saying six years later, well, Mr. German, you promised me you'd accept punishment. The record doesn't reflect that, and that's not a material fact that's going to be able to overcome this mere scintilla of this type of argument for summary judgment.

The Supreme Court in Celotex and adopted more than ones, but in the Fourth Circuit in *Felty v. Graves-Humphreys*County, 818 F.2d 1126, 1997, district courts have an affirmative obligation to prevent factually unsupported defenses from proceeding to trial. And that's all that the defendants have,

Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Anything further on that,
Ms. Schmidt?

MS. SCHMIDT: Your Honor, again, like I -- we would just point to the deposition testimony that's been outlined from the various board members regarding the disruption that they perceived at the time.

THE COURT: All right. The core issue in this case is the balancing of the employer's interest and the employee's rights. This is a burden that rests with the employer, and it may not be based on speculative objections.

In the Goldstein case cited by both parties, this appears at 218 F.3d 337, 2000 case decided by the Fourth Circuit, it also involved complaints of volunteer fire companies, and there was an issue about how they — that interest in promoting harmony, comradery, et cetera, needed to be weighed against the safety concerns that were being expressed. And the issue is whether there was an extremely strong showing — and that was the holding of the Fourth Circuit — with regard to allegation of disruptions, predictions, the same, and so on, as opposed to specific allegations that were made there by those two relating to the safety of the public. And the Court said that — it particularized the inquiry by not saying that a complainant's interest in voicing safety complaints always outweighs the fire department's interest in maintaining morale and efficiency among its ranks, but concluded that from the evidence in the case, as viewed in the light most favorable to the complainant, generalized and unsubstantiated interest while substantial do not outweigh the public's interest and being aware of the public concerns. And Pickering decided to this effect, 391 U.S. at 570.

In this case the defendants argue that the plaintiff cannot meet this prong of Goldstein, that his interest in First Amendment expression does not outweigh the defendants' interest in managing its internal affairs. The decision to terminate him as a volunteer deputy chief with the Bethesda Department was based on these allegedly unauthorized statements -- or unauthorized statements to the press regarding the location, use, and effectiveness of these protective suits that had been acquired by the county and apparently the subsequent inappropriate e-mail comment regarding Duncan's wife, the defendant concedes that comments regarding protective suits is a matter of public concern. They say that the criticism of Duncan and his wife is not a matter of public concern, not subject to judicial review, and particularly in light of 9-11 events, and we're talking about roughly a month thereafter that the combined effect weighs in favor of the defendants under the Pickering analysis, among other things, given the extreme sensitivity of the county at that time with regard to safety concerns and particularly in light of terrorist attacks.

The further allegation is that German's statements to the press disclosed vital knowledge about the county's ability to respond to potential terrorist attacks. He only knew of the issue of protective suits by reason of his position as deputy chief at the Bethesda Department. He used that information to disclose this vital knowledge to the media, that is Montgomery County's ability to respond to a biochemical attack. He told a — he has quoted a Washington Post reporter to a location where the suits were housed, and he only was able to do so by reason of his position with the Bethesda Fire Department.

He was critical of the county, an agency that the Bethesda Fire Department alleges it had theretofore good working relationships in terms of funding, and so there was an issue also about whether discipline could be maintained by the superiors and harmony among co-workers. And most importantly the county was put at risk for targeting a terrorist attack.
Among other things, the statements to the press undermined confidence in the county and the fire and rescue services at a time when the nation was dealing with terrorist attacks, the time, manner, and place of expression, of course, being relevant under Pickering. The plaintiff's comments regarding preparedness came only 30 days following 9-11.

There had been decisions made by the county officials, that is fire and rescue officials, with regard to how to house, where to house, and how many protective gear it should have, how they should be distributed. Plaintiff's comments questioned this policy, they had a clear impact on the Bethesda department according to defendants and its relation with Montgomery fire officials and community in general. They were made to try and scare the public, according to the defendant, and in fact county officials had to hold a meeting of all county volunteer fire chiefs to talk about the best way to deploy equipment and stop undermining the confidence in the fire service.

The fact that they were -- statements were made had a potential to affect public safety, although the defendant concedes it never did.

The defendants further contend that the plaintiff's statements to the press affected the relationship between career and volunteer firefighters in Montgomery County, that there was an effort underway before 9-11 to create a fire service that integrated career and volunteer members, and there was a great deal of resistance to that. But plaintiff comments made the situation between career and volunteer firefighters more difficult. That was the statement that the county executive apparently took note of or made. He wanted to make sure the county executive to be said that there was no validity of the concerns and that there were no concerns of public safety, and that this caused disruption in the Bethesda Fire Department's operation and mission. There was a difficult relationship between the Bethesda Fire Department and the fire rescue service as a result allegedly of plaintiff's remarks.

There was a close working relationship between the Bethesda department and the county and fire administrator. That relationship was called into question and tarnished by things that plaintiff allegedly said. The County Fire Administrator Ayoagi said in a letter to the president of the Bethesda board, Miller, Virginia Miller, dated October 24, 2001, that a past good relationship had changed and pointed to, quote, an assistant chief being permitted to be the spokesman for the department and undermining public confidence in the county's planning and response for chemical biological events and then acting as a spokesman for the Bethesda Fire Department contradicting the county executive at a press conference and then making attacks on the county executive's wife allegedly, with further reason to undermine the good relationship between Bethesda and the county and the fire administrator.

Some board members testified to similar concerns. The further allegation is that plaintiff's statements had the ability to interfere and disrupt the internal affairs of the Bethesda department. He usurped Chief Urban's authority allegedly causing a conflict in the delegation of responsibility in the workplace.

And although plaintiff says that there was no policy regarding who could speak for the Bethesda Fire Department, there was also no prohibition, but Chief Urban says, no, there was under the integrated emergency command structure in the county, the chief is the primary spokesman and, therefore, this undermined the chain of command.

The further contention is that it's impossible to separate German as an individual from his position within the fire department whenever he speaks on fire department matters. If these comments were allowed to pass unanswered, the assumption would be that he was speaking on behalf of the department and would show that it was in fact officially authorized. On that basis, the defendants argue that the Pickering factors weigh in favor of the defendants.

Now, the plaintiff's view is that when you apply the Pickering factors to the case that they militate in favor of his position. The plaintiff concedes that the Court needs to look at the impaired maintenance of discipline by supervisors, the impaired harmony among co-workers, the extent to which personal relationships may have been affected, the impeded performance of public employees' duties, the interference with the operation of the institution, whether the mission of the institution was undermined, whether it was communicated to the public or to co-workers in private, and whether it conflicted with the responsibilities of the employee within the institution or abused the authority and public accountability that the employee's role entailed.

The plaintiff stresses that the defendants have an obligation of a strong showing of disruption in order to prevail, although the Court agrees that Connick just shows the reasonable potential, substantial potential, for disruption before it and no need to wait for the actual unfolding as the defense has argued.

The specific examples that the defendant has adduced with regard to the effect and potential effect of interfering and disrupting its operations and efficiency are challenged by the plaintiff on the grounds that they are merely speculative. And, for example, President Miller apparently testified that with regarding potential reduction in funding, that was her subjective hope, that it would not be a consideration.

Apparently there's no specific reference that there was actual dissention between the Bethesda rank and file. The people who were upset according the plaintiff with what he said were the defendants themselves. And among other things, the plaintiff points to the fact that both Miller and Urban said that he wasn't speaking in an official capacity in any way, that he was on his own, but in any event, that there was a concession in effect as to the seriousness of the disruption, that it was not so serious by reason of the fact that the defendants were prepared to let German resume his position as deputy chief if he would agree to a six-month suspension and write a letter of apology to the county executive about the comment about his wife and would agree -- and the Court needs to look specifically at the language here -- quote, to never again contact the media in any way (individually, anonymously, third party, et cetera) while a member of the BFD, end quote. This is a letter from Urban, the chief, to German dated January 22, 2002.

Now, that's the essential argument that's made contra, and the Court would just add in summary that the plaintiff's view is that these are really speculative statements at best that have been made by the defendants, that they have failed to submit material evidence that demonstrates that the press — that statements to the press disclosed vital knowledge about the county's ability to respond to a potential terrorist attack. According to the plaintiff, there were other statements that were made by the county and fire service about the fact that there was these suits, it was well known that they were stored in Station 7 in Chevy Chase, Maryland, who was the primary hazmat response team for the county. Reporters often made broadcasts from outside the county that the defendants have failed to submit any material evidence demonstrating that the statements undermine confidence in the county or elsewhere except for statements that were made by Chief Administrator

Ayoagi, that's as a government official saying that because he was criticized that this is a matter that somehow is going to have an effect on safety and public security.

The further suggestion is that the defendants have failed to submit any material evidence demonstrating that statements of the press affected the relationship between career and volunteer fire departments. Again, just speculation. Or that they failed to submit any material evidence demonstrating that the statements affected the fire department's relationship with Montgomery County officials, that Bethesda Fire Department's internal affairs were somehow disrupted.

Now, just by way of predicate, I haven't really recited an introductory statement of facts because we've been dealing issue by issue, but just for purpose of the Court's decision, let me make a general statement about the background facts.

The plaintiff, Lewis German, is a former member and formerly deputy chief of the Bethesda Fire Department. He was discharged from his position on or about February 20th, 2002, as a result of public comments that he made that were critical of certain aspects of the county's preparedness to respond to terrorists attack, particularly equipment that had been bought that he suggested was inadequate. He was — in the September—October 2001 time period, he provided information to and was interviewed by members of the press concerning the county's fire rescue service's failure to fit test and properly utilize these 150 biochemical protective suits and other protective gear that had been purchased several years earlier with federal money for use in the event of biochemical attack.

German, along with other fire officials was quoted in articles appearing in October, that is specifically the 9th and 10th, 2001, in the Washington Post, the Associated Press, the Montgomery Gazette, and the Montgomery Journal. He also appeared with Chief Stanton of the Kensington Fire Department in a televised interview on CBS Channel 9 on October 9th, 2001, and it was in response to media inquiries that the county executive, Douglas Duncan, on October 9th held a press conference. He stated that German's remarks were inaccurate and were made for personal gain or personal reasons, whatever. German then sent an e-mail to a list serve maintained by the community Fire and Rescue Service of the Chief Officers Association, of which he was a member. He objected to the characterization of his comments and he stated with respect to the county executive, quote, no one wants his job or his wife, end quote.

Thereafter, on or about October 13, 2001, county officials convened a meeting of the volunteer chief officers of the Fire and Rescue Service to address those comments and events. Chief of the Bethesda Department, Dennis Urban, and German attended. At least for a portion of the meeting, the primary chiefs were taken alone to meet with Duncan and Fire Administrator, Gordon Ayoagi. And after this meeting Urban spoke with Duncan and Ayoagi and informed them that he would open an investigation into German's conduct.

On October 24th, 2001, Ayoagi sent a memorandum to Virginia Miller, who was president of the Bethesda Fire Department Board, regarding some general dispute between the board and the county over the county's presence in Station 20 of the county. There was a paragraph referring to German saying that he had acted, quote, as a spokesman, end quote, for the Bethesda department and that this had undermined, quote, public confidence in the county's planning and response for chemical biological events, and then there was a criticism of German's personal attack on Duncan's wife.

There were meetings, then, thereafter. The plaintiff denied wrongdoing, he stated the disciplinary action against him would be inappropriate. And then there was the e-mail regarding German's possible reinstatement sent by Urban indicating what the terms would be, that he would have to submit a letter of apology to Duncan, serve a six-month suspension from the Bethesda Fire Department activities, and agree to, as the Court indicated earlier, quote, never again contact the media in any way (individually, anonymously, third party, et cetera), end quote, while a member of the BFD -- Bethesda Fire Department, end quote. And then the e-mail noted this is not significant, there is, quote, no negotiation or compromise on these conditions, end quote.

German would not agree to the punishment. He stated that he believed he had not violated any law, regulation, or statute, and then he was notified by e-mail dated February 20th, 2002, that he was terminated from his position as deputy chief effective immediately, end quote.

There was, again, some effort to appeal to the board of the Bethesda Fire Department. The Court has addressed the administrative ramifications about that already, and he's now in court seeking he says reinstatement, but other lost wages, benefits, and compensation from the State of Maryland.

Now, the Court starts with the analysis that safety issues involving fire department and law enforcement people in general is a very highly protected area. They are not just any employee talking about anything, it's considered to be a highly protected area. So very strong showing is required by the defendants to show that the Pickering factors are somehow fulfilled. And the Court, in reviewing this case, can only say that — again, I hesitate to say as a matter of law, but the most that the Court gleans from the defendants' propositions, and this is independent of the affidavits that are being challenged in the Motion to Strike. The most that can be gleaned is that there is largely speculation on the part of the defendants about any of these factors really having been brought into play. The people who are complaining are the people themselves who are essentially responsible for the situation regarding the — or at least people to whom responsibility could be attached regarding the quality of the suits, the suitability of the suits, the deployment of the suits, all those issues, the people who are speculating on all these things.

And although the defendant is not required to — the defendants are not required to demonstrate actual disruption, the fact that there is literally no disruption follows sort of suggests that the suggested disruption or potential for it was not reasonable in the first place.

One of the most obvious ones, one of the very most obvious ones, is that somehow this statement by the Bethesda Fire Department is going to result in the county denying fire protection funds to the Bethesda Fire Department. That's almost ridiculous in and of itself, that somehow because one chief might say something critical that the residents of Bethesda Chevy Chase are somehow going to be deprived of funding for their fire and rescue purposes. That's speculative, as speculative perhaps as it can get. But there is in fact, as I say, largely, largely speculative statements that are made here. Again, I have real — no real evidence that anybody in the Bethesda Fire Department apart from the defendants themselves were somehow thrown into disharmony, that the county council itself was somehow disaffected, that the mission of the institution was undermined, that the only close personal relationships were affected were perhaps people with whom German as the speaker had, for example, Urban. But beyond that, there was no turbulence in the ranks, so to speak, that was generated by this.

Whereas there may have been continuing animosity or — and typically between career and volunteer firefighters, but that predates all this. The idea that somehow this was causative or even stoked the fire seems to me to be a very improbable suggestion.

So this is a case where clearly the defendants have not been able to demonstrate that as a matter of law, and that's what they're asking the Court to decide, that they are entitled to summary judgment. The Pickering factors are simply not satisfied as far as the defendants are concerned.

Whether they are satisfied from the plaintiff's standpoint, which is the flip side and goes to the issue of plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment is another matter.

I am strongly inclined, I might say, in favor of the plaintiff's position were I the trier of fact and might well go forward with regard to a grant of the plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment, but I do find that there may be, at least debatably with regard to the balancing issue, facts that could be adduced by the defendant that would convince the trier of fact otherwise.

Likewise, arguably, although it's not my own personal view at this point, but arguably there was some extent to which 3 it could be said that the plaintiff was acting in his official capacity as opposed to his personal capacity. But again, that 5 only leads to a denial of the plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment with the strong caveat to the parties that the Court 6 7 will look at this at the time of trial very closely and may very 8 well either direct a verdict in favor of the plaintiff and grant 9 summary judgment if this matter comes to trial, because I do 10 think that the defendant clearly has the better part of the case here. I hesitate only because there is some possibility that 12 the defendant could prevail, although that would remain to be 13 seen.

And so with that in mind, the Court would deny both Motions for Summary Judgment as to the 1983 claim.

As to the wrongful discharge claim, I agree with the plaintiff that if insofar as it may be found that the plaintiff was discharged because -- on the basis of rights that were violated, that would violate a public policy in Maryland and would be separately actionable under Maryland law.

Now, we have not addressed -- what that does, of course, is the following, and it makes the whole issue of the terms upon which the plaintiff was offered to come back, it raises that question as well, because if in fact it's determined that his free speech rights were violated, then there was no basis to discipline him at all, that he should not have been subjected to a six-month or offered or demanded or conditioned upon a six-month suspension, or even, as the Court has indicated, an apology to Mr. Duncan's wife, which, again, borders on the slightly fantastic. Those issues would go by the way if in fact the discipline was inappropriate.

The Court has no difficulty concluding, however, that the condition that the defendant would have to forego every kind of speech as long as he was a member of the department is facially unconstitutional. There's no question about that in the Court's mind, that it would represent a prior restraint that would be inappropriate, and I think the defendants would have to concede that. And I don't think it's an issue of someone coming in later saying, we'll tell you what we mean when it was said in the letter there's no negotiating on this, there's no talking about this, that was made rather emphatically.

So that is where the case stands right now. With regard to the Motion to Strike, the Motion to Strike is denied. But between now and the trial, if somehow the defendants feel they would like to take further depositions of the people who adduced those late affidavits, you'll have leave to do so.

What I strongly suggest of the defendants is you give serious thought to settling this case, because this is a case where it, to a virtual certainty, will get to a jury, and it may even end up with a directed verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

And so you can go forward and you can depose and you can go forward and you can prepare for trial and you can spend that time and money, but I suggest that you ought to give it a very hard look.

Now, having said that, Mr. Zaid, I think you need to sit down and figure out what this case is worth. You need to look hard and clearly on beyond the lost benefits. What do you think you're entitled to under a First Amendment claim? And you need to put that into hard numbers and make a — what I suggest you do, frankly, at this point, both sides, is within the next — let's say we'll come to the further discovery issue in a moment.

Within the next two weeks, Mr. Zaid, I want you to make a hard demand for settlement, and I don't want you to be fantastic. I want you to look at the law and see what your maximum potential recovery is here.

And then within two weeks thereafter, Ms. Schmidt, I want your clients to respond. I'm not requiring you to settle the case, but I want a demand made and I want a response made. And if there's some room for negotiation at that point, then it seems to me you would do well to appear before a magistrate judge of this court at a settlement conference and try and nail this case down; otherwise — and I think we'll try and keep that within, let's say, a total 60-day period, that is for your demand and offer and response, reply.

At the end of 60 days, I would give you an additional 30 days to take further depositions in preparation for trial.

That is limited to the individuals who filed the late affidavits. I want my decision here clear, I did not rely, do not rely in any way in my decision today on the late-filed affidavits. But insofar as they may be available for trial, you may depose these people and you may find further what they have to say. And I suppose in order to — you want to be sure that you can't otherwise settle the case before you get to that next round of events.

So with that said, I think that covers the various issues. The Motion to Strike is denied. The cross-Motions for Summary Judgment are denied.

The one fact that I do, however, find, although it's not I think separately actionable, but I will state that the condition that the plaintiff would have to accept for reinstatement that he could not make any remark at all is facially unconstitutional.

Now, goes back to a question I asked earlier, so what if it is, what do I do in this case, what's the effect of it? I leave you to worry about that as you sit down in your settlement discussions. But certainly it is a datum that favors the plaintiff, and strongly, so keep that in mind as you go through your discussions.

All right. Anything else?

1
               MR. ZAID: No, sir.
 2
              THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Counsel.
 3
              MS. SCHMIDT: No, Your Honor.
